PLUTOCRATS EASY

Baron Von Mauteuffe, from Blackwell's Islands, Tells How He Worked Them.

CARNEGIE REMEMBERED HER

Showed Kindness to Wife of one of His Workmen—Kept Slave in New York Since the War Was Over.

SUED FOR TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 30.—A remarkable case of slavery which has existed right in the heart of New York State ever since the Civil War, has just been brought to the attention of the public through the action of Mary Wisdom, an aged negress, against Silas A. Snell, a wealthy Orleans County farmer, for $2000 pay for services.

After the war Mary, who had not heard of President Lincoln's proclamation, was brought from Kentucky by a returning Union soldier, John Barker. He, it is alleged, sold her to Snell.

Recently she learned for the first time that the Civil War had freed all slaves. It took her months to grasp the full meaning of the report. Then she ran away.

A few days later she told the story of her life's slavery to attorney Griffith, of Geneva, who brought suit for $2000 payment for her services. The defendant claims that a home was all he ever agreed to give her.

THE RICH EASY.

NEW YORK, July 30.—"I shall probably do more work in the next six months than I have done for two years past," said one of the prisoners who landed on Blackwell's Islands Tuesday, "but the exercise may do me good."

He was Hermann W. Truebner, whose beautifully engraved cards inscribed "Baron von Mauteuffel" and "Prof. Wilhelm von Humboldt" gained him audiences hospitality, sympathy and cash gifts from such prominent persons as J. Pierpont Morgan, Charles M. Schwab, Mrs. Howard Gould, H. O. Havemeyer, William C. Whitney, Clarence Mackay, Jacob H. Schiff, Mrs. Grace Dodge, Mayor Seth Low and ex-Mayor Edward Cooper. Speaking of his experiences Truebner said:

"It's easy enough to reach these wealthy men and women is you exercise ingenuity. The first time I saw Mr. Havemeyer I was taken at once into his private office. I told him I had been to Mr. Arbuckle and he had no employment just then for a man of my experience and talents, and so I had come to him. I talked about the polarization of sugar and other technical subjects. He gave me a second interview, when I had a chance to tell my hard luck story, and he loaned me $25.

"I think William C. Whitney and John Jacob Astor are the hardest two men to get at. I reached Whitney, but I never saw Astor. I had seen Mr. Whitney at the race tracks and I went to his country house, at Roslyn. He gave me a check. I drove down to the station with him in his own carriage.

"You want to know how I got to Morgan? I'm afraid there will be another complaint against me. No? Well, it was easy enough. When I went to his office a big officer stopped me, but when I said I had an appointment with Mr. Morgan he said: 'Oh, yes,' and told me he was out and would be back in a few minutes. I pulled out my watch and said I would be back in ten minutes. When I returned I was ushered right into his private office.

"I told Mr. Morgan I was an engineer and chemist, and that certain men had sent me to him to see if he could not get me employment. The names I mentioned were those of millionaires.

"But he was rough. Then I told him about my distress at home and he listened impatiently. Fitally he turned to a secretary and told him to write a check for me.

"Clarence Mackay is a prince. He had an appointment with me for 3 o'clock, and promptly on the hour he came out of his office, extended his hand to me and said:

"What can I do for you, baron? Yes, he helped me; but I was almost ashamed to take the money."

REMEMBERED HER.

PITTSBURG, July 30.—Andrew Carnegie did honor to Mrs. Elizabeth Horner, wife of James S. Horner, who is a heater at the Carnegie plant at Homestead. Mrs. Horner comes from Dunfermline, Scotland, the birthplace of Mr. Carnegie, and is visiting relatives there.

In a letter received by Mrs. Horner's daughter at Braddock Tuesday, Mrs. Horner says that she met Mr. Carnegie at a corner stone laying in Dunfernline, and upon being introduced to him, Mr. Carnegie instantly remembered her as the wife of one of his former workmen. Mrs. Horner says that Mr. Carnegie asked her to ride in the third carriage in the procession and afterward to sit beside him at the place of honor during a banquet.

The Bellefonte Electric Company.

The Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Bellefonte has been absorbed by the Bellefonte Electric Company and re organized under the above title. It is the intention of the Electric Company to immediately enlarge the present plant, and install some new and expensive machinery, for the purpose of furnishing electric power. As soon as the work is completed the current will be on at all times, the idea being to furnish manufacturing establishments and wherever motors can be used, with a cheap and regular power. This comes at an opportune time for those who had been using water, will not be compelled to pay the exorbitant rates proposed by the water committee of our Council.

Of course this will make a great difference in the receipts of the water tax, and can only be made up by increasing the rate materially to private houses, which will be a hardship, especially to the poor, as they now pay as much as they are able, but it is in keeping with the short-sighted and unbusiness-like manner, which has characterized every thing the Water Committee has done, but as the people pay the bills what need they care, and in this connection will just repeat what we have said before, viz:—THE COUNCIL WILL BE COMPELLED TO PAY FOR THE PUMP AND WATER WHEEL, WHICH THEY THEMSELVES ACKNOWLEDGE WILL NOT DO THE WORK REQUIRED.

Field of Rye Stolen.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of A. N. Arbaugh, of Woodberry, Md., charged with the larceny of a field of rye from John Strickland, tax collector for Hampstead district, Carroll county. The case is a very peculiar one.

Some years ago Mr. Arbaugh purchased a tract of land containing between three and four acres from a Mr. Alban. Soon after this he went to Woodberry, since which time the land has not been cultivated nor the taxes upon it paid.

Mr. Stricklin did not like to proceed to collect the taxes, as prescribed by law, and he hit upon the idea of farming the ground and applying the profits to paying up the taxes in arrears. Last summer he sowed the field in buckwheat and obtained an excellent crop. The field was then sowed in rye. Mr. Stricklin harvested the rye and several days later went with a force of men to haul it away.

To his surprise he found that every sheaf had disappeared and a notice was posted on a tree warning him not to trespass on the ground.

After consultation with States Attorney Weant he proceeded at once to have the warrant issued. The result is awaited with much interest by the parties concerned.

The Fancy Dress Ball.

There seems to be some misunderstanding in relation to the fancy dress ball for the benefit of Bellefonte's Hospital to be held on Thursday Aug 7th. Every one is invited, and it is hoped every one who can do so will be there. The admission is 50 cents, and you can either go in fancy dress, evening dress or ordinary dress. To hear the music alone will be well worth the price of admission. And when we remember the proceeds are for the benefit of a free hospital in our own town, let every one help it along. It is a most worthy object and should receive the hearty support of our citizens.

Runaway Team on a Mountain Side.

Thursday afternoon while a heavy truck load of bark was being taken down the side of the mountain near Salona, the rope that held the truck from making too rapid headway broke and the team ran away. The driver escaped injury by jumping from the truck. The horses were both badly injured. One of the horses was hurt so badly that it had to be killed and the other one will probably die. The team was owned by Oscar Knapp.

Large Stalk of Oats.

Adam Neese, near Centre Hall, has taken from a field of oats on his farm one head that had 104 grains in it, and another that had 116. A single grain produced a stalk of seven stems, the tallest of which is four feet and eight inches and on the bunch there are 448 grains.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS!

They Were Very Perceptible in California and Other Western States.

MUCH DAMAGE IS THE RESULT

In California Water Gushes Forth From Eighteen Foot Fissure. Seismic Disturbance Felt From Coast to Western Iowa and Nebraska.

THE INHABITANTS IN A PANIC

OMAHA, Neb., July 29.—An earthquake shock which was general over portions of Nebraska, Western Iowa and South Dakota, took place shortly after noon yesterday. The seismic disturbances were felt at a large number of towns in three States and lasted from ten to fifteen seconds. No damage has been reported thus far, although the shock was sufficient to rattle dishes and to affect bell towers in some places.

Yankton, S. D., reports a shock of 12 seconds' duration; Santee Agency, in Northern Nebraska, reports a similar occurrence, and Battle Creek, Neb., was shaken for 20 seconds. The disturbance was more plainly felt at the latter place than any others which have reported thus far.

In this city the shake was barely discernable and few people knew of such a thing until the Weather Bureau reported last night.

FELT IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

YANKTON, S. D., July 29.—An earthquake shock was felt here yesterday afternoon, lasting about 12 seconds. The shock was accompanied by the usual rumbling noises and moved from northeast to southwest.

CALIFORNIA SHAKEN, TOO.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 29.—Meagre advices received from Los Angelos, 45 miles north of this place, report that an unusually severe shock of earthquake took place about 11 o'clock Sunday night, doing damage to the property of the Western Union Oil company estimated at from $12,000 to 15,000.

At Harris Station, on the railway, a fissure is reported to have appeared and from it a stream of water two feet deep and 18 feet wide is now flowing. A slight shock of earthquake was felt in Santa Barbara shortly before 11 o'clock, but no damage was done.

WATER TANK KNOCKED OVER.

LOMPOC, Cal., July 29.—Lompoc Valley experienced a severe earthquake shock at 10:55 o'clock Sunday night. It lasted fully 30 seconds and was so severe that dishes, clocks, house plants and other articles were thrown from shelves. The people were stricken with terror and ran from their houses, some fearing to return, as other lighter shocks continued for several hours afterward.

Another heavy shock was felt at 5 o'clock yesterday morning and one at 11 o'clock. A large water tank was knocked over, the earth cracked at many different places, and the Santa Inez river bed was slightly changed at places.

Good Advice to those Who Quarrel.

"Dogs delight to bark and bite,
For God has made them so,
Let Bears and Lions growl and fight,
For tis there nature to"

"But children you should never let
Your angry passions rise,
Your little hands were never made
To tear each other's eyes."

The above lines were suggested by hearing a lady tell of a "scrap" between a little girl and boy which took place on Saturday. We know them both, and think lots of them, and ordinarily they are just as nice and good children as can be found, but this time they forgot themselves. We want them to learn the above lines and never be so naughty again.

Attraction for a Picnic.

Next Wednesday a business men's association will picnic at Island Park, near Sunbury, and one of the attractions will be a public marriage ceremony. There will be three bridesmaids, three groomsmen and a maid of honor. Two ministers will officiate at the ceremony. The names of the bride and groom have not been made public; but all the merchants and many others are announcing what they will present to the bride as wedding gifts. If Mr. Warfield will get up an event of this kind for the Centre and Clinton county picnic at Hecla park on August 21st he will double the number in attendance of any previous year.

The School Board's Financial Committee's Report.

The Financial Committee of the Bellefonte School Board has submitted their annual report to that body. It is a very comprehensive document, has been carefully prepared, and bears evidence of a great amount of thought and care in its preparation. There is no detail which is not thoroughly considered, and many suggestions made which there is no doubt will be carried out.

The School department do not run their affairs in a haphazard manner, but on business principles, and we only regret that lack of space prevents us from publishing it in full.

Like all the other departments, they have a debt, but look forward and make ample provision to meet it at maturity, and it is being gradually reduced, without a burden to the tax-payers. There is nothing disguised or hidden in this report, but it is an exact and open statement of affairs as they exist; instead of being discouraging it is just the opposite, and every dollar of the money which passes through their hands is spent judiciously.

As some portion of it might be of particular interest we publish, as an item of news and information, the estimated expenses for the school year, beginning the first Monday in June, 1902, together with the indebtedness already existing, also, how these expenses are to be met and paid which show how carefully the matter has been considered. The report is signed by D. F. Fortney, John P. Harris and W. H. Crissman, Finance Committee:

CHARLES M. SCHWAB ILL!

HIS CONDITION MUCH IMPROVED

He Sits Out on His Porch—Mrs. Schwab's Reassuring Words. Many Messages of Inquiry Received From New York.

ANXIOUS TO RETURN TO NEW YORK

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 28.—The condition of Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, who became suddenly ill Saturday afternoon, while driving with members of his family, has so much improved that last night he sat upon the porch of his Pennsylvania Avenue cottage. The day, however, was spent in almost absolute rest, upon the advice of the physician, and this, together with the well known recuperative powers of Mr. Schwab, has gained sufficient strength for him to be able to most likely leave here within a day or two.

The confidence of the members of the family in his rapid return to his usual health is shown in the fact that Mr. Schwab's private car, the Loretto, has been ordered attached to the express train which leaves here at 9:05 o'clock this morning, to take Mrs. Schwab to Pittsburg.

Mr. Schwab, it is said at his residence, was also very anxious to return to New York, but under the advice of his physician and the desire of Mrs. Schwab, he will likely remain here for a day or two, to obtain a good rest, and not too hastily get back to his desk.

Mrs. Schwab stated that at no time was the condition of Mr. Schwab such as to cause any apprehension. She was very much worried about the anxiety it had caused, not only among his but her friends. This was attested by the large number of telegrams inquiring as to his condition.

"Mr. Schwab rested comfortably last night," said Mrs. Schwab, "and no longer feels any trouble from his attack of Saturday, but we want him to remain quiet and recover entirely. He was down stairs several times yesterday, and really would be able to leave here today, though the physician and myself think that upon general principles he should have a few days more rest and for that reason he will remain here. I am going away and certainly if Mr. Schwab was in the least sick I would not go."

Telegrams from all over the country kept pouring into the Schwab cottage during yesterday. John W. Gates was among the first to wire, asking particulars. Among the others were James Galey, first vice president of the United States Steel Corporation; John J. O'Connor, Winthrop Rutherford, E. F. Lukens, H. S. Morgan, C. B. White, New York; Rev. John Ward, Homer F. Lindsey, L. P. Brown and W. C. Magee, Pittsburg.

W. E. Corey, president of the Carnegie Company, who has been here for some time, was an early and anxious caller at the Schwab cottage.

Returned from Europe.

Judge Gordon and family are again at their home in Clearfield. It will be remembered that the Judge went to Carlsbad immediately after the May term of the Clearfield county court to recuperate his health. He appears to have been greatly benefitted by his voyage and sojourn at the famous watering place. He does not throw such a large shadow as he did before his health became affected, but he declares that he feels very well, and his appearance bears out his words.

—The annual inter-denominational holiness camp meeting at Mahaffey begins on August 7th and continues ten days. For tents and other information write to Rev. William Bryenton at Mahaffey.

—The Harrisburg Telegram says, Governor Wm. A. Stone will return to Pittsburg for the practice of law at the expiration of his term. He has no ambition to become an ambassador to Russia.

—David Miller now in jail on the charge of murder, has retained Col. Wilbur F. Reeder as his counsel to defend him when his trial takes place.

BITS OF STATE NEWS.

—When the family of Michael Myers, near Lilly, arose Saturday, they found the body of Mr. Myers hanging from an apple tree near the home.

—The First National bank of Tyrone has established the private home bank system of saving, a feature that is becoming very popular in many parts of the country.

—The oldest Sunday newspaper in Pennsylvania, the Scranton Free Press has suspended publication and failed to come out Sunday for the first time in its thirty years existence.

—The roof of the steam laundry at Philipsburg caught fire from the smoke stack at noon Monday, but it was discovered and quickly extinguished by the fire boys before any particular damage ensued.

—The sufferings of the families of the coal strikers will be equalled only by the sufferings of the consumers who will have to pay a price for coal next winter which will reimburse the operators for the loss of profits occasioned by the strike.

—Dr. George Edward Reed, president of Dickinson college, has offered two prizes of $40 and $25 to the graduates of the Carlisle public schools who pass the most creditable examination in studies requisite to entrance into the college.

—Rev. Ralph Illingsworth, formerly of Morrisdale Mines, was elected to the responsible position of Sunday Missioner and Evangelist for the entire territory of Arizona, embracing one of the largest bishoprics in the entire Union. His future home will be at Phoenix.

—About 12.45 Monday afternoon a foreigner was struck by a draft of cars being shifted just above the tower east of the Tyrone depot, and instantly killed. How he came to be there or where he came from no one knows. He was about 40 years of age, of medium size and wore a heavy mustache.

—The Methodists of Windber dedicated their new house of worship on Sunday. The new church was begun seven months ago and cost $4,000; it was dedicated free of debt. It is a one-story frame structure, with a seating capacity in the auditorium of 350 and a Sunday school room that will hold 75 people.

—Several engineers were at Clearfield on Friday and Saturday and staked out the site for the foundations of the big steel plant which is to be erected there. They also staked off the side tracks and railroad switches that are to connect with the steel mills. The work of erecting the plant will be begun at once and Clearfield will boom as it never boomed before.

—A mortgage, given by the American Lime and Stone company, of Tyrone, to the Girard Trust company, of Philadelphia, trustees, for $500,000, was entered for record in the office of the recorder of deeds, at Hollidaysburg, Thursday. Forty-nine tracts of land, situate in Blair, Centre and Huntingdon counties, are bound by the mortgage, the proceeds of which will be expended in the betterments of the extensive and valuable industrial plant and the acquirement of other properties.

—A little girl with big blue eyes, a mass of golden curls and a conspicuous tag pinned on her coat attracted much attention on the White Star Line pier, Philadelphia, the other day. She was Hilda Fieldhouse, 10 years old, who is traveling all by herself from Rawlines, Wyo., to Bradford, England. About two years ago her father left England to come to this country in search of a fortune. Six months ago he sent for Hilda and her mother packed her off to America. She became so homesick that her father decided to send her back to England, so she started on her long journey. She has safely accomplished half the distance.

—Under date of July 22, Brigadier General Wiley issued a congratulatory order to the Second brigade, N. G. P. The order says: "The brigade, commander desires to congratulate the officers and men of the respective organizations of the brigade as well as the staff officers of these headquarters for their prompt and intelligent performance of all orders. The appearance at inspections was the best the command ever presented. Details made for guard and other duties reported on time and performed them well. Morning and sick reports were in at the appointed hour. The condition of all the regimental camps with regard to sanitary and symmetrical arrangements was very good, and of some, most excellent. The movement of the troops to and from camp was, on the part of the regiments; performed with unusual despatch and fully in accordance with schedule previously prepared. For all this the thanks of the commanding officer is due and is hereby heartily extended."

THE SAVING OF PETER

By EUGENIE UHLRICH

Copyright, 1901, by Eugenie Uhlrich

Mrs. Minna Schmitt stood at the kitchen door of Merriam's big house and looked at the changing west. Every moment the light was growing fainter and duller, and still Peter Burns did not come in to the supper that had been waiting for him over two hours. This was strange of Peter, and it would have been not only strange but suspicious of anybody else after having been "'lectioneering" all afternoon with the old judge, Mrs. Merriam's husband.

Mrs. Schmitt did not like the judge. The worst men in her eyes are those who always seem so nice and pleasant to everybody and between times get drunk and abuse their wives. If such men were only mean all the time, people would not blame their wives for everything that goes wrong, as the village did Mrs. Merriam when she had the old judge bound over to keep the peace. Since that time the judge had been obliged to live at the village hotel, and Mrs. Merriam was left in the big house. Now when the judge wanted to see Mrs. Merriam he drove up to the gate and whistled for her. Then Mrs. Merriam put on her best dress and went driving with him, for the judge was really very pleasant when he was in a "good temper," as Mrs. Merriam herself would have put it. Every evening she made Peter drive down to the hotel to see that the judge got to bed without his boots. The judge paid those of his bills that he could out of his practice, and Mrs. Merriam paid her own out of the place and the "summer guests." Sometimes she paid an odd one of the judge's.

Minna could not see but what it was much better so, though whenever she went to the village she had to hear something about women who wear the "pants" and like remarks, which passed for wit thereabout. But Minna, who had had a sharp and happily short married experience of her own, loftily ignored these supposed jokes, for her German tongue was too slow to risk answers. The delectable Peter himself, who made possible the harmony of the present conditions, was Irish. He drove the judge home one day when the judge's driving was a bit uncertain, even for a horse that could find the way home alone. Peter put up the horse and looked after things that evening, and he had been doing so ever since. Now he was the one person who was able to travel cheerfully the sometimes slippery path between the inn and the house at all times.

And still he did not come in. Minna bethought herself that she ought to go over to the stables. Tomorrow would be Sunday, and Peter often needed a stitch put in somewhere. It was not in Minna's quick fingers to see any one untidy on Sunday if she could help it. So she went over to the stables—not that she was curious or, even worse, worried. Things did look queer. The road wagon was standing in the driveway, the cushion left shiftlessly on the seat, and Peter's best coat lying across it. After a moment Minna's sharp ear heard deep breathing, and there on a bench inside the door lay Peter, fast asleep. Now Minna could not believe that any man would go fast asleep without his supper unless there were something wrong. But she was used to doing things, not standing and looking at them. She took the cushion off the seat and, along with the coat, carried it into the carriage shed. Something hard in one of Peter's pockets struck her hand, and she knew it at once for a bottle. It was almost empty, and the contents were not to be mistaken. Then she tried the other pocket. Behold, another bottle!

"That camel of a judge," she muttered. "He has five stomachs, and he does not rest until everybody is like him." The zeal to save woke in her, and she did not ask herself whether she had that fine zeal for every wavering soul or only for Peter's. She took the bottles and hurried to the kitchen with them.

Mrs. Merriam met her at the kitchen door. "Where is Peter?" she asked. Minna marched past her and tragically held up the two bottles in front of her.

"Minna," gasped that lady, "what—what have you been doing?"

"I?" screamed Minna. "Peter, you mean!"

"Peter! Oh, Peter, Peter, you too, Peter!" wailed Mrs. Merriam as she sank down in a chair. "But wait; this is the first time, and there is still hope for him. I have it"— And she hurried to her medicine shelf and came back with a bottle with some brown stuff in it. "This will make him wish he'd never touched any election whisky in his life. Run and slip them back, Minna."

Minna obeyed and then milked the complaining cows, grown restless waiting for Peter, and when everything was well done she went up to her room and cried a bit. In the morning she was up earlier than usual. There seemed no use in waiting for Peter to drive her to early mass this morning. She trudged along the damp road from which the late August sun had not yet drawn the dew, and her feet somehow felt very heavy.

"It is a damp morning," she said, looking against the shimmering mist. Here and there a dead leaf fluttered in front of her. The sun was soft and warm and the green of the trees deep and dark in the glistening moisture, and yet it all kept her thinking that winter was near and that she herself was thirty-five. As she passed a little house on the road where old Anse, the choreman, lived with about a dozen grandchildren, she heard a child's fretful cry. "Must be it's sick. I'll have to ask Anse."

When Minna came out of the church, she had a start that must surely have given her a nervous shock had she been of less hardy fiber, for there was Peter waiting as usual.

"An' why didn't you wait for me, Mrs. Schmitt?" he asked.

"It was a good morning to walk," said Minna most quietly.

He helped her into the cart, and then he said slowly after they were started, "It was a very hot day yesterday." And he switched the lines to chase the flies off the backs of the horses. "A very hot day."

But Minna was silent. After a little Peter went on: "We went over a turrible lot of country yesterday, the judge an' I. I'm thankful we had a right good supper over at Harneck's, so, bein' tired an' restin' me a minute, I fell asleep. It's too bad you milked the cows an' did that work."

"Oh, that didn't make much difference," said Minna. But there seemed to be something that did, so after a bit Peter went on again:

"The judge is a turrible man to drink an' treat all roun' when he goes 'lectioneerin'. He gimme a couple o' bottles to treat the boys for him, but I met old Anse in the road this mornin', an' he told me one of the children was sick an' he didn't feel very well himself, an' so I gave him the rest."

Peter had the flattering sense that he was clearing himself without admitting the suspicion, which is really a very delicate thing to do. So he was the more surprised to see Minna jump around in her seat and fairly scream at him:

"You did what?"

"Gave it to old Anse for the child."

"Oh," she moaned, "for the sick child! It'll kill it."

"But it was good stuff," said Peter blandly. "The judge paid a dollar a bottle for the bit of a bottle."

"But it's bad; I know it's bad. Hurry up and tell Anse it's bad." Peter only stared at her and almost held the horses at a standstill. "Hurry up," she said and rattled the whip in its socket. At this ominous and unaccustomed sound the horses plunged forward so suddenly that Peter had to pull them to their haunches to keep them out of the ditch.

"I'll not drive a step, I'll tell you," he said, "until I know what for," for Peter could not stand bothering the horses when he was driving. Then Minna began to cry, and Peter as well as the horses was bothered.

"But, Mrs. Schmitt," he said, "sure, an' you're always such a sensible woman"—

"What's the use to be a sensible woman when a man's so foolish? It's all your fault." And Minna cried more.

"Well, then, if it is I'll be drivin' on," said Peter. "An' you'll be tellin' me how it is that it's my fault." Then he lifted the reins, but he did not start the horses. Minna looked over the fields, while the tears rolled down her cheeks. Then she stole a glance at Peter's face, calm and masculinely unrelenting. There came a trot behind her. McGolrick's mules were coming up the road behind them, and she and Peter standing still like that! So she began hurriedly:

"I was afraid you'd get like the judge, too, so we thought if you got good and sick you'd never do it again, and we put some ipecac in it a whole ounce"—

"In what?" asked the hyperinnocent Peter.

"In the bottles of whisky," gulped Minna.

Peter whistled, and the horses flew. "Ipecac's bitter, isn't it?" But Minna did not notice, she was crying so hard. "Guess I better tell Anse that it's cheap 'lectioneerin' whisky an' the measles will send him somethin' better." Minna smiled so gratefully that Peter fell to wondering what he could do next to please her. When he came out of Anse's, he was chuckling. "The baby's all right, but Anse is havin' a time." Whereupon Minna giggled hysterically.

To make sure Minna herself took the basket and the port wine which Mrs. Merriam sent. When she came back, she walked rather slowly up the driveway, trying to decide whether she should stop and tell Peter. When she came to the stable door, Peter was pitching straw for bedding. He did not seem to be getting much on his fork, and presently he looked up as if seeing her there were the most unexpected happening. He pulled his hat down and came toward her. Leaning against the doorpost, he regarded the prongs of his pitchfork intently. About that time Minna found her basket handle very interesting, and she began to rub her forefinger thoughtfully up and down its strands.

"The baby's all right, Peter," she said after awhile. Peter looked at her meditatively as if somehow she were saying something else.

"Mrs. Schmitt," he said then, "I've been thinkin' about how worried you got about them bottles. It's kind o' nice to think people care enough to worry about you. Now, I've been thinkin' there might be nicer things to take than ipecac, an' sometimes it's the nice things that are the best for a man, don't you think so?"

Peter stopped and dug his pitchfork into the ground. Minna's literal, German mind had become unwary.

"What would you take, then, Peter?"

"Well, now, Minna, if 'twere left to me I'd take you."

In spite of Mrs. Merriam, who pointed out precedent and evidence to prove that Minna had strangely inverted her opinion, Minna agreed with Peter just to save him, to be sure.

HER CARRIAGE LUXURY.

It Doesn't Last Long, but It Fills Her With Exquisite Joy.

"Of course," said the New York young woman who earns her own living though a "natural born lady," "I can't afford to ride in carriages, and ordinarily I get around in the street cars, but there is a moment or two in my life when I rise superior to common things and take to wings.

"I have some friends who are able to live at the Waldorf, and I go there to see them once or twice a month. But do I go in the cars? Never. I come down from home in the cars, but at Thirty-third street and Broadway I get out and interview a cabby at the stand there. I always pick out the nicest looking turnout, and I offer the driver 50 cents to drive me to the Waldorf He looks at me as if I were daffy, but I tell him I know what I am about, and if he wants to earn 50 cents in about two minutes he has the opportunity.

"He smiles and tells me to get in, and I order him to drive up to the Thirty-third street entrance with a whirl and a dash. There are always two or three flunkies there, and it does make me feel too good for anything just to swing into the curb and have the crowd of them simply fall over themselves to wait on me and bow me in.

"It is all over in a very few seconds, but such exquisite pleasure as I get out of it couldn't, in the nature of mortal things, be of long continuance. The human system couldn't stand it."—New York Herald.

How Wine Judges Keep Sober.

If you have ever gone into a wine merchant's office and sampled different vintages, says the Philadelphia Ledger, you will have observed that the dealer never swallows the wine he puts into his mouth, but holds it there for a time while he lightly breathes through his nose. His palate tells him whether the wine is rough or smooth, but his sense of smell detects its aroma and is largely depended on to determine its quality. Of course it is the brain to which the smell is communicated that is really instrumental in fixing values, and as the effect on the brain is only momentary a great deal of wine may be sampled in this way without ill effects, but when the wine is permitted to pass into the stomach the fumes which arise from it continue to assail the brain as long as the liquor remains there in its orignal state and if taken in large quantities results in muddling the brain.

The Legion of Honor.

The red ribbon which superseded the titular distinction of pre-Napoleonic days has rarely been given to women, but it has a feminine side for all that. Napoleon, after Austerlitz, founded three splendid educational establishments for the daughters of the decorated. Most of the women who have been admitted to the order have been superintendents of these establishments. Marie Laurent was honored not as an actress, but as president of one of these institutions. An exception was made in the case of the late Rosa Bonheur, upon whom the cross of the Legion was conferred in 1865. Mme. de Stael's witticisms at the expense of messieurs les honores contributed to the causes of her enforced exile.

Leominster's Old Ducking Stool.

In the old Priory church of Leominster is a very interesting specimen of the old cucking or ducking stool, a universal mode of punishment of scolds, scandal mongers and women with too long a tongue. It was also inflicted on brewers and bakers, etc., transgressing the law, who in such a stool were immersed over head and ears in stercore (stinking water). This mode of punishment dates back to Saxon times, and the Leominster specimen was the last used in England of which we have any record in 1809. Several other specimens still exist about the country, as at Montgomery, Warwick, Fordwich and Leeke.—Travel.

Hedgehogs.

Hedgehogs are very strong in the water, swimming with ease against a rapid stream, and with their muscular claws they turn up the nests of trout or salmon and make a goodly haul therefrom. They will breast a very rapid stream, and cold water, as near the freezing point as may be, seems to have no terror for them. The eggs of the salmonidæ are a welcome prey to nearly every animal that will face water. Aquatic birds, rats (both house and water), hedgehogs, beetles and their larvæ, the so called fresh water shrimp, are deadly foes.—London Opinion.

A Shattered Poem.

"Beautiful, beautiful, silken hair!" Philip murmured fondly, toying lovingly with one of her nut brown tresses. "Soft as the plumage of an angel's wing, light as the thistledown that dances on the summer air, the shimmer of sunset, one glitter of yellow gold, the rich red brown of autumnal forests blending in entrancing beauty in its"—

And just then it came off in his hands, and he forgot what to say next.

MAN AND MARRIAGE.

Sage Advice About Methods Before and After the Ceremony.

In "Her Royal Highness Woman" Max O'Rell gives some very sage advice to men as to what they should and should not do both before and after marriage. The following extracts will be of interest to readers:

Never marry a woman richer than you, one taller than you or one older than you. Be always gently superior to your wife in fortune, in size and in age, so that in every possible way she may appeal to you for help or protection, either through your purse, your strength or your experience in life. Marry her at an age that will always enable you to play with her all the different characteristic parts of a husband—a chum, a lover, an adviser, a protector and just a tiny suspicion of a father.

However ill you may speak or think of women, you will always find a woman able to do it better than you.

Never let your ladylove see you without a collar—no, not even the very wife of your bosom. A man's head without a collar is like a bouquet without a holder.

Never let her see you asleep. Maybe you sleep with your mouth open. If you are married, let your wife sleep first. When you are quite sure she is off, let yourself go, and be careful to wake up first in the morning.

Bismarck on Champagne.

Years ago, when Baron Hengelmuller was assistant secretary of the Austrian embassy at Berlin, Bismarck gave a dinner to which the baron was invited. All the guests except Von Hengervar drank champagne, and Bismarck, noting the young man's abstinence, asked the reason therefor.

"I have not yet earned the right so to indulge," was the reply.

"Ah, that will not do," remarked Bismarck; "it is allotted to every ablebodied man in this world to consume in his lifetime 10,000 bottles of champagne. So you should begin now lest you fail to secure your just portion."

"If 10,000 bottles be the allotment for the ordinary man," responded the young diplomatist, bowing to the Iron Chancellor, "your excellency, being an extraordinary man, should have double allowance, and I therefore take great pleasure in awarding my share to you."

"I thank you," Bismarck replied, "but permit me to inform you that without waiting for your grand renunciation I have already passed the 20,000 mark."—Saturday Evening Post.

She'll Sing Hereafter.

A charming young lady of Kensington who glories in the possession of a wealth of bright auburn colored hair is the teacher of a Sunday school class. On a recent Sabbath the rector made the announcement of a hymn to be sung and, rising, waved his hands, and the organ pealed forth.

"Now," said he, "ready—sing."

A small and precocious youth in the young woman's class said:

"Why don't you sing, Miss Frisbee?"

"Me? Oh, I never sing," replied the teacher, smiling her prettiest.

"But," exclaimed the boy, "the minister says you must. Didn't he just say 'Now, Reddy, sing?'"

Smelling salts and numerous other restoratives had to be used to bring the teacher out of her faint.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Choleric Versus Quiet Natures.

Clarendon, says The Schoolmaster, made careful observation when he wrote: "Angry and choleric men are as ungrateful and unsociable as thunder and lightning, being in themselves all storm and tempests; but quiet and easy natures are like air weather, welcome to all and acceptable to all men; they gather together what the others disperse and reconcile all whom the others incense; as they have the good will and the good wishes of all other men, so they have the full possession of themselves, have all their own thoughts at peace and enjoy quiet and ease in their own fortune, how strait soever it may be."

Honest Praise.

An honest compliment was that paid to M. de Vendome, who, while commanding the French army in Italy, dispatched a young nobleman to announce to his master the victory which he had gained at Suzzara. The latter, while attempting to describe the battle, became several times much confused in his narrative, when, although the king preserved his gravity, the Duchess of Burgundy, who was present, laughed so heartily that at last the young gentleman said, "Sire, it is earlier for M. de Vendome to win a battle than for me to describe it."

Our Fears.

It is not what a thing is, but what we think it is, that frightens us. A man walks within an inch of death without knowing it and therefore without trembling, and then his hair stands on end at some empty noise as harmless as the buzzing of a fly.

Wanted It Plain.

Mrs. Youngwife—I want to get some salad.

Dealer—Yes'm. How many heads?

Mrs. Youngwife—Oh, goodness! I thought you took the heads off. I just want plain chicken salad.—Philadelphia Press.

Power of Gems on Bad Eyes.

The ruby was considered good for derangement of the liver as well as for bad eyes. The sapphire and emerald were also credited with properties which rendered them capable of influencing ophthalmic disorders, and there is a superstitious belief that serpents are blinded by looking at the latter stone.

BUSINESS AND HOMES.

The Cause of the Trolley Car and the Street Railway.

On one point the American is determined—he will not live near his work, says Charles M. Skinner in the Atlantic. You shall see him in the morning, one of sixty people in a car built for twenty-four, reading his paper, clinging to a strap, trodden, jostled, smirched, thrown into harrowing relations with men who drink whisky, chew tobacco, eat raw onions and incontinently breathe, and after thirty minutes of this contact, with the roar of the streets in his ears, with languid clerks and pinguid market women leaning against him, he arrives at his office. The problems of his homeward journey in the evening will be still more difficult, because, in addition to the workers, the cars must carry the multitude of demoiselles who shop and go to matinees.

To many men and women of business a seat is an undreamed of luxury. Yet they would be insulted if one were to ask why they did not live over their shops, as Frenchmen do, or back of them, like Englishmen. It is this uneasy instinct of Americans, this desire of their families to separate industrial and social life, that makes the use of the trolley car imperative, and the street railway in this manner widens the life and dominion of the people. It enables them to distribute themselves over wider spaces and unwittingly to symbolize the expansiveness of the nation.

Heroic Courtesy.

A French writer on "The Revolution, the Empire and the Restoration" cites an amusing instance of what he calls heroic courtesy. Percy, Lord Beverly, invited to dine with him a marquis who was one of the most valiant soldiers of the army of Conde. Wishing to honor his guest and the cause which he served, that of the French king, the English peer ordered his butler to bring him a bottle of fine wine 100 years ago, "a ray of sun shut in crystal." He opened it carefully and offered a glass to the marquis, saying, "If you deem it worthy the honor, will you drink in this wine the health of the king?"

The marquis tasted the wine. "How do you like it?" asked the host. "Exquisite," replied the marquis. "Then," said Lord Beverly, "finish the glass. Only in a full glass can one drink the health of so great and so unfortunate a king." Without hesitation the marquis did as he was bidden. Only when the Englishman tasted the wine did he learn that what he had forced on his guest was castor oil.

At John Knox's Grave.

The guidebooks unite in telling the visitor in Edinburgh to see the grave of John Knox. It is situated in Parliament square and is marked by a small rectangular slab of stone sunk in the cobblestone paving of the street, with the chiseled inscription, "J. K. 1573." But it is odds against even the acute tourist that he finds the great reformer at once, for only five feet away from the holy ground there is a similar sunken slab, and many times a day parties of tourists may be seen approaching on tiptoe the second stone and bending over it with keen interest only to read, "Wilking Patent Hydrant," and find themselves face to face with the water supply system of a modern town instead of the bones of the eminent clergyman.

He Overdid It.

Beggem (to himself)—I've got around that rich old great-aunt of mine at last. She's interested in benevolent schemes, and I'm helping her night and day to search out worthy objects. Today she said I'd have cause for rejoicing when her will was read.

His Great-aunt (to herself)—I had no idea my grandnephew was so good. It worries him almost sick to see so much misery in the world. How delighted he will be to find that all my money is to go to the support of the poor friendless orphans!—New York Weekly.

Dodging a Tip.

Polite Diner—You have waited upon me very acceptably, and I have enjoyed my meal thoroughly. You have behaved like a gentleman, and a gentleman you certainly are, notwithstanding your humble occupation.

Waiter—I hope, sir, that I am a gentleman. I always try to be one.

Polite Diner—It is as I suspected, and, being a gentleman, I shall not insult you by offering you money. Perhaps at some time I may be able to reciprocate your courtesy. Till then farewell.

SUMMER TOURS TO THE NORTH.
Two Tours to Canada via Pennsylvania Railroad.

For the Summer of 1902 the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has arranged to run two personally-conducted tours to Canada and Northern New York. These tours will leave July 19 and August 13, including Niagara Falls, Thousand Islands, Rapids of the St. Lawrence, Quebec, The Saguenay, Montreal, Au Sable Chasm, Lakes Champlain and George and Saratoga, occupying fifteen days; round-trip rate $125.

Each tour will be in charge of one of the company's tourist agents, assisted by an experienced lady as chaperon, whose especial charge will be unescorted ladies.

The rate covers railway and boat fare for the entire round trip, parlor-car seats, meals en route, hotel entertainment, transfer charges and carriage hire.

For detailed itinerary, tickets, or any additional information, apply to Ticket Agents, or address Geo. W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

Vacation Days.

Vacation time is here and the children are fairly living out of doors, There could be no healthier place for them. You need only to guard against the accidents incidental to most open air sports. No remedy equals De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve for quickly stopping pain or removing danger of serious consequences. For cuts, scalds and wounds.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for sores cuts and bruises," says L. B. Johnson, Swift, Tex. "It is the best remedy on the market." Sure cure for piles and skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. C. M. Parrish.

Poisoning the System.

It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dullness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Risers prevent this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress. C. M. Parrish.

No False Claims.

The proprietors of Foley's Honey and Tar do not advertise this as a sure cure for consumption." They do not claim it will cure this dread complaint in advanced cases but do positively assert that it will cure in the earlier stages and never fails to give comfort and relief in the worst cases. Foley's Honey Tar is without doubt the greatest throat and lung remedy. Refuse substitutes C. M. Parrish.

For Over Sixty Years.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over sixty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. Sold by all druggists in all parts of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind.

Treat Your Kidneys For Rheumatism

When you are suffering from rheumatism the kidneys must be attended to at once so that they will eliminate the uric acid from the blood. Foley's Kidney Cure is the most effective remedy for this purpose. R. T. Hopkins, of Polar, Wis., says, "After unsuccessfully doctoring three years for rheumatism with the best doctors, I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. I cannot speak too highly of this great medicine." C. M. Parrish.

Acts Immediately.

Colds are sometimes more troublesome in summer than in winter, it's so hard to keep from adding to them while cooling off after exercise One Minute Cough Cure cures at once. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Sure cure for coughs, colds croup, throat and lung troubles. C. M. Parrish.

CITIZEN SOLDIERY!

The Members of the National Guard Complimented on Behavior at Gettysburg.

EFFICIENCY OF A HIGH DEGREE

The Commander in Chief Issues a General Order From Headquarters at Harrisburg.

HIGHLY PLEASED WITH THE TROOPS

HARRISBURG, July 25.—The following general order was issued from National Guard headquarters yesterday,

"The Commander in Chief congratulates the officers and men of the National Guard of Pennsylvania upon the unprecedented success that attended the encampment of the Division held at Gettysburg, Pa., July 12 to 19, 1902. Never before in the history of the National Guard has such a high degree of efficiency been attained, and the discipline and conduct of the troops been so eminently satisfactory. The hope of the Commander in Chief, as well as the officers of the Guard that the privilege of encamping upon the historic field of Gettysburg would be appreciated by all who participated in this encampment, has been fully realized.

"The behavior of the troops, the efficient condition of the several commands, the willingness to perform all duty faithfully and promptly and the knowledge of the requirements of the service, were the subject of commendation and praise from the Honorable Secretary of War and the distinguished officers of the United States army who accompanied him on his visit to the encampment.

"Every member of the National Guard may well feel a personal pride in the organization and deem it an honor to enjoy membership therein, realizing, however, that its reputation, efficiency and morale is in the keeping of the individual member, and upon each devolves the duty of maintaining its present efficiency and admittedly high personnel. The citizenship of the state recognize that the National Guard is the conservator of the public peace and of law and order. If it is efficient it will inspire confidence in the people and hold in check the passions of the thoughtless and irresponsible who in time of excitement may menace life and property. If its personnel is kept at the present high standard, or advanced, the service will attract the best of the young men of our state and give them a training in and knowledge of military affairs that will add materially to their worth as citizens and to their individual advantage. The Commander in Chief, speaking for the people of the Commonwealth, therefore congratulates the National Guard of Pennsylvania upon the present high position to which it has attained, and indulges the hope that the untiring effort, the devotion to duty, the insistence upon a high personnel, and the willingness to indulge in personal sacrifices for the good of the Commonwealth and the advancement of the National Guard may still continue."

Pastor West Doing Evangelistic Work.

Rev. J. Stanley West, pastor of the Baptist church at Eagleville, is doing some commendable evangelistic work. During the summer months he proposes to visit many of the small towns in Clinton and Centre counties and hold evening services. Where there is no church or school house the services will be held outdoors. Rev. West will, while engaged in this work, defray his expenses by selling bibles.

Last week he visited Haneyville and held services in the church at that place. The attendance was large, the church being packed to overflowing. Mr. West says he finds many families having no bibles in the house.

THE SCHWAB CHAPEL.

The chapel which Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, of Pittsburg, presented to The Pennsylvania State College during the commencement exercises at that institution in June, will cost in the neighborhood of $120,000. When the gift was made it was understood that it would cost $65,000, but after consideration prompted the generous donors to insist that the building be erected to suit every need without regard to expense.

Out of deference to their wishes plans have been adopted that will give the College a magnificent building. Mr. George Parsons, the landscape architect of Central Park, New York, one of the most eminent men in his profession, was called upon and after a careful study of all the environments has recommended that the chapel be located immediately in front of the botanical building and midway on a line from the rear of the main building to the rear of the armory.

It is to be 84x120 ft, fronting to the south. The foundations and entrance will be of New England granite. The superstructure is to be of grey brick with terra-cotta trimmings and copper roof. The building is plain in architecture, on Grecian lines and from the exterior will have the appearance of being only one story high. The entrance will be through three grilled iron doors that fall back into the building, making a small logia in effect. A very imposing vestibule will impress one on entering the chapel. Its floor will be of mosaic with either tile or mahogany wainscoting. From the vestibule a marble stairway will lead to the 40x45 ft foyer above, from which the gallery entrance will be made. The auditorium will be in quartered oak or mahogany. It will have a seating capacity of about 1500 and there will be galleries on three sides. The stage will have both depth and width for all purposes and will be an artist frontispiece for the interior effect.

The building is to be thoroughly fire proof and every detail of convenience has been carefully looked after. The main floor is to have a fall of about two feet. There will be few straight lines in the interior, the object in securing rounded corners and a closed circular ceiling being to secure the best acoustics possible.

Need More Help.

Often the over-taxed organs of digestion cry out for help by dyspepsia's pains, nausea, dizziness, headaches, liver complaints, bowel disorders. Such troubles call for prompt use of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are gentle, thorough and guaranteed to cure. 25c at Green's Pharmacy.

The Bellefonte Shirt Factory.

We had occasion Thursday to call at the Bellefonte Shirt Factory and were surprised to find it such a busy place. Thinking, perhaps, our citizens might be interested in knowing something about this infant industry of our town we interviewed the proprietor, S. D. Ray, Esq., who cheerfully gave us the information desired.

This factory has been in existence not quite three years, and during that time has been in constant operation. Until within the last few months the work has been confined to making shirts, but since then it has been running on elastic seam drawers, turning out about six hundred dozen per week. Mr. Ray has just entered into a contract with a New York firm to furnish eight hundred dozen per week; in order to do this he has increased the capacity by purchasing several new machines. He has, at present, forty-three ordinary sewing machines, five finishing machines, four button-hole machines and one machine for sewing on buttons, all of which are run by power, which is supplied by a boiler and engine on the premises.

The factory room is large, light and airy, and a more pleasant place to work could not be desired. It is kept perfectly clean and neat. When it is in operation with the long rows of young women working the machines it is a very busy and interesting sight. The foreman of the establishment, Mr. John A. Sharp, is kept busy, going from one place to another, to see that everything moves smoothly. The work, after it leaves the operator, passes through the hands of the inspector, Miss Emma Pardoe, who from long practice is able to detect the least defect in the garment.

We inquired what wages the employes were able to make and was informed that after about two months' practice they could earn from $1.00 to $1.40 per day. As it is clean, pleasant work, we wonder why more of the young women of Bellefonte and vicinity do not try for employment, the only skill required being to run the material through the machine. This morning there were about fifty persons at work, who while busy were as clean and contented a body as can be seen anywhere. The only thing which prevents Mr. Ray from doubling his capacity is the difficulty in securing help, and we hope that, after reading this article, many will be persuaded to call and see the factory, and if they do they will find everything just as we have described.

We expect, from time to time, to visit the various industrial institutions in town and inform our readers as to what they are doing, that more interest may be taken in them by those who receive the benefit of the wages paid the employes.

THE REVIEW OF TRADE!

What Dun and Bradstreet Have to Say This Week.

PIG IRON SOLD FAR AHEAD

Crop Conditions, Particularly as to Corn and Cotton, Have Further Improved—Weather Conditions in the East Have Been Depressing.

COAL SUPPLIES ARE CURTAILED

NEW YORK, July 26.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly Review of Trade of today says:

Each day brings the agricultural products of the nation nearer maturity and, as the possibility of any serious injury becomes smaller, the feeling of confidence in fully sustained trade grows stronger. Insufficient fuel is the one serious difficulty in the iron and steel industry, interruptions and delays from this cause becoming more noticeable each day. Supplies of coal are curtailed by the strike, although coke ovens are making new records of production. Shipments are retarded by the car and motive power shortage. In a market where there is compartive dullness because deliveries cannot be made promptly, the outlook for long continued activity seems favorable, especially as scarcity of fuel cannot continue a factor indefinitely.

All forms of pig iron have sold far ahead, and there is no evidence of overproduction, in the near future, at least. Billets are still somewhat unsettled by heavy importations, yet domestic prices are steady and further arrivals are expected. A new week has brought out more liberal orders for railway supplies and the structural mills have taken contract deliveries still further into next year. All lines of finished steel are in an exceptionally firm condition. There is little need to seek business, the big producers having a ready market in sight often before the raw material is received. Other advances are reported in spelter, which has shown great strength during the past two weeks, but other minor metals tended toward weakness.

Footwear factories have returned to almost full operation, contracts coming forward freely from wholesalers at the large cities.

Quotations for cotton goods are unchanged, with tone steady and raw material in better demand.

There was less activity in the speculative markets for the leading cereals, yet prices were fairly well maintained.

Failures for the week numbered 208 in the United States, against 108 last year, and 17 in Canada, against 28 last year.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Bradstreet's today says:

Crop conditions, particularly as to corn and cotton, have further improved, and the confidence in fall trade shows no diminution, but rather an increase.

Weather conditions in the east have been depressing to trade in seasonable goods and fall trade in dry goods promises to be late. Among the industries, iron and steel are easily first in activity, and relief from the so called pig iron famine is sought in freer importations.

The fruit season is now in full swing and sugar consumption is at its full and promises to be very heavy. Anthracite coal, stove size, has reached the pinnacle.

Crop reports are especially good from the southwest, where corn and cotton have been favored by good growing weather.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Ridding Barns of Rotten Hay.

Many of the farmers throughout Centre county are ridding their barns of rotten hay. Haying was begun early by many, at a time when grass was in full vigor and contained its greatest amount of sap. Showery weather interfered with properly curing the crop, which stored in that condition generated too great a heat, moulded and finally rotted. By next spring many will find their hay unfit feed for stock.

—A state law, approved March 23, 1900, says that the owner or occupant of land abutting on any highway in the township shall during September of each year cut and remove all briars, brush and weeds, and in case of failure to do so, the township committee shall cause such work to be done and any owner shall pay such expense incurred with costs, if suit be necessary before a justice of the peace.

Lock Haven's Smallpox Patient.

The authorities at Lock Haven are taking strenuous measures to stamp out smallpox at that place. A special meeting of council was held and resolutions in regard to the matter were passed, among the number being one to purchase a house for a contagion hospital.

Wednesday's Lock Haven Democrat says:

In accordance with the foregoing, the light and sanitary committee, and the board of health met last evening. After considering many places, they learned that the only place that would comply with all the provisions of law and that would be available, would be to purchase for $700 from the Proctor Myers estate the small farm and buildings formerly owned by James Ames, and which is at the foot of the mountain, a short distance from Castanea. The building is frame and is situated on about twelve acres of land. There is good water on the place, within easy reach of the city, and has a good view of the city. It will be just the place for cases of this kind. It was also decided to purchase a few of the household goods of Mrs. Marshall, who occupied the building, and also the furnishings of the room, which was occupied by Miss Reed in the hospital.

But the committee struck several snags before they could carry their decisions into action. Giving Mrs. Marshall such short notice, they had to procure another dwelling for the lady. After several buildings had been looked at, Mrs. Marshall finally accepted one in Flemington.

Another snag was the objections of the Castanea people to the removal of the patient to the house in their township. Several of the citizens came to the city last evening and were seeking the judges to procure an injunction to restain council from carrying out the design. In this they were unsuccesseful. Then they attempted to influence Mrs. Marshall to remain in the house, but as council had purchased the property, and had procured the lady another house, this attempt was also thwarted.

Mrs. Marshall was finally induced to leave the house this morning. Jesse Ricker was then stationed as a guard to protect the house from any attempt to burn it, as had been threatened.

Miss Reed was removed to the house today under the direction of Dr. Shoemaker, the president of the board of health. The nurse from Westport arrived here last evening and at once took charge of the young lady. She was taken away this afternoon about 3 o'clock.

Voluntary quarantines have been placed upon the hospital and at the West Main street residence, where Miss Reed lived before she was taken to the hospital.

"Hoy" Family Reunion.

The children and grand-children, with many invited guests, assembled Thursday at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Hezekiah Hoy on his beautiful farm in Benner township near Bellefonte, to celebrate the annual reunion of their family.

Those present were Jacob Hoy, wife and children; Henry, wife and children; Ursinius, wife and children; Clayton Royer, wife and children; Grant Pifer, wife and children; Mrs. Dr. Shuey of Ohio, and Miss Carrie Hoy of Bellefonte. There were seventeen grandchildren in evidence. Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bower, Rev. Schmidt, wife and family of Bellefonte and Miss Moyer of Centre Mills.

The day was passed delightfully and was enjoyed by every one. Games diverted and entertained the children. The younger people indulged in music and song, whilst the grandfathers and grandmothers engaged in conversation, and took pleasure in watching the pranks and antics of the younger guests.

At the proper time they were all invited to sit down to a meal such as only those living in the country, know how to prepare. The table being loaded until it fairly groaned, with everything that could tempt and satisfy the appetite, and as we are acquainted with some of their Bellefonte guests, we know they would do the meal full justice. Of course, we are only drawing upon our imagination as to what that table was loaded with, for while the Editor is expected (and in this case is glad) to write and describe all affairs of this kind it is rarely his pleasure to partake of any of the viands that he tells about, but as we are well acquainted with "Kia" Hoy, we know, that if we had happened around at that time he would have made us a welcome guest. Our wish is that Mr. and Mrs. Hoy may live to enjoy many more occasions such as this.

The Band Concert.

The Coleville band gave Thursday evening the first of a series of band concerts which the down town people have arranged for the pleasure of the public. A large audience listened to the music and enjoyed it highly.

These concerts will be continued every week until October from the temporary stand which has been provided so that all may hear better, and the band relieved from the crowding that it is subjected to when seated on the street.

The weekly dates for the concerts will be announced later.

What A Child's Sermon Did.

Some children were playing one day in a garden, and being tired of the usual games, decided to "play at church," so all being arranged, Jennie who was to be the minister, announced this text: "If you love me, do as I tell you" and proceeded to explain its meaning: "It is not easy to do as you are told when you don't love the one who tells you, when the servant says, 'come here' or 'do this.' I don't like obeying because I do not love her. But how different it is when mother says, 'Jennie, dear, I want you.' Once mother told me to stop in the nursery and mind baby while she went to see some visitors; but she was gone so long that I ran down just to speak to the little girl in the next door garden, and when I came back mother looked at me so sadly. At bed time I threw my arms round her, and said, 'good-night, mother dear, I do love you.' And she said, 'It is very difficult to believe that you love me when you do not mind what I tell you. 'I don't care a bit for that kind of love.' And, oh, I did cry!

"So that is just what Jesus means when he says, 'If you love Me do as I tell you;' and He tells us to 'Come to Him,' to 'Love one another,' to Watch and Pray,' and lots of other things, and He knows if we are trying to mind and show that we love Him. Amen."

A young man who was resting under the garden hedge nearby heard this simple little sermon, and it was the means of changing his whole life.—Rams Horn.

He'll Try Some Other Method Next Time.

David Breniman, a farmer in Mifflin county, had an experience in moving a balky horse yesterday that he will not repeat. He was bringing a load of grain in from the field ahead of an approaching rain, when one of his horses balked. Having heard that to build a fire under a balky horse would start him, the farmer acted upon the suggestion. The horse moved just far enough to bring the wagon over the flames. David watched his load of grain burn up. So did the horse, who then placidly resumed his journey to the barn.

A Jolly Camping Party.

About as jolly a camping crowd as ever left Bellefonte was the one that departed this morning on a camping expedition up to the vicinity of Julian. In the party were John and George Knisely, Jesse Cox, Charles Gulsewhite, William Rider and several others.

Their recreation will be hunting and fishing and they took a nice string of dogs along to scare up the game. Judging from the amount of provender they carried with them they must expect to stay a good while.

Will Be Free of Debt.

Before the opening of the next school term in September, Centre Hall will wipe out its entire school debt. This will be done without increasing the millage, reducing the number of schools or lowering the salaries of teachers. There is at present a bonded indebtedness of $500 caused by the purchase of the Public School Park, which was purchased by a previous board. The use of the new ground is not in sight.

—The employees of the American Lime and Stone Company held their annual picnic Saturday at Hecla Park. The Coleville band furnished the music and a big crowd was in attendance.

THE METHODIST REUNION.

Held at Lakemont Park Altoona Thursday July 24.

The fifth annual reunion and outing of the members of the Methodist Episcopal church of Central Pennsylvania was held Thursday at Lakemont park and was one of the most successful gatherings of the kind ever held at the popular resort. The attendance was quite equal to that of any similar previous event. Methodists throughout Blair and surrounding counties were in attendance. Special trains from Clearfield and Centre counties carried hundreds from those counties while the regular trains from the east and west and on the branch roads hauled extra coaches to accommodate the excursionists.

Services were held in the theatre forenoon, afternoon and evening and eloquent and stirring addresses were made by some of the most distinguished Methodist clergymen in the country. Professor Gipprich's orchestra assisted a chorus of fifty singers in providing music for the occasion. The morning services began at 10:30 with Rev. J. Ellis Bell, presiding elder of the Altoona district, in the chair. The program included responsive reading; solo by Miss Mary L. Ingold, Hollidaysburg and remarks by the presiding elder. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Edward J. Gray D. D., president of Dickinson seminary, Williamsport.

The services of the afternoon began at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Wilford P. Shriner, of Bellefonte, presiding, the exercises opening with singing and prayer by Rev. J. W. Rue, of Curwensville, and Miss Ida Keagy sang a solo. The presiding officer then made some remarks and introduced Rev. M. L. Ganoe D. D. of York, Pa., who delivered an eloquent address. His subject was "Enthusiasm" and he said among other good things that Methodism needs enthusiasm and if it does not get it, it will die.

Other speakers at the afternoon and evening services were Dr. Gray, Rev. Ward Beecher Pickard, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Dr. Thompson, of Pittsburg.

Bucktails' Annual Reunion.

The sixteenth annual reunion of the Bucktail regiment will be held at DuBois on September 16, 17 and 18. Only 294 men survive of the total enlistment of 1198, who came down the Susquehanna river on rafts at the breaking out of the Rebellion. These survivors now live in 21 states of the Union.

In the Boroughs of Bellefonte, Centre Hall, Howard, Milesburg, Millheim, Philipsburg, Unionville, South Philipsburg and State College, and in townships of Benner, College, Howard, South Potter, Snow Shoe, Rush, Union, Spring, Boggs, Walker, Worth, Harris, Marion, Middle precinct of Miles, Liberty, Patton and Ferguson, the polls will open at 7 p. m. and close at 9 p. m., and in the remaining districts will open at 2 p. m., and close at 4 p. m., except Halfmoon township, where the polls will open at 6 p. m and close at 8 p. m.

The primary election for delegates will be held under the supervision of the district committeemen who will post proper notices, advertising as far as possible the delegate election in their respective precincts and also see that the proper election officers are designated, in attendance and that they are duly sworn. They will also be careful to see that the polls are open during the hours designated in this call.

WILBUR F. REEDER,
Chairman Republican Co. Com.
GEORGE W. REES, Sec'y.

A WORD TO REPUBLICAN VOTERS.

We wish to remind the Republicans of Centre County, that on next Saturday the primary elections will be held to elect delegates to the County convention which will convene in Bellefonte the following Tuesday. At this election, in addition to choosing the delegates, you will also instruct to vote for the delegate certain candidates, and this is the time to exercise your right to designate who shall compose the County ticket. A number of persons have announced themselves as candidates for the several offices to be voted for, any of whom would be acceptable to the people.

For some of the offices there are no names presented, and we cannot too earnestly impress upon each individual voter, the importance of being present at the primaries, to see that no one is permitted to go on the ticket who is not worthy, and cannot command the party vote at the November election.

With a good ticket in the field, there is no fear as to the result, for every man upon it will be elected beyond the peradventure of a doubt, thus the importance of naming only our best men. With a full vote, Centre County is as surely republican, as Texas is democratic, and there will be no one to blame but ourselves, if the whole ticket is not triumphantly elected. We have made mistakes in the past, let us see to it that we make none in the future.

The democratic papers are very anxious to stir up dissention in our ranks, for they see the hopelessness of their situation, when we present a united front. These newspapers had better devote their energy and labor in trying to hold their poor broken party together, for it certainly needs all the support and encouragement they can give. It is not all harmony with them, judging from what is heard on all sides, from the disappointed ones and their friends, and if you watch closely, you will observe the handles of the knives hid in their boots, which will be used on election day.

We have refrained from saying anything until now, nor was it necessary, but from this time forward until the day of the election the columns of this paper, and our best efforts, will be devoted to fighting such a political battle in Centre County, as has never been known before. We have the ammunition in abundance, and every shot will be double charged. Our great incentive is the fact that factional strife in our party has ceased. We have made mistakes in the past—grievous and costly mistakes they were,—lessons we will never forget. We now come together, forgetting all these differences, with a determination to do or die. Let us stand shoulder to shoulder, and we will accomplish the glorious election of every man upon our ticket. Therefore go the polls next Saturday and forgetting the folly of the past, select good, honest and true men, to be our standard bearers in the campaign of 1902.

A CANDIDATE FOR REGISTER.

In our column of announcements today, we have a new name for Register, Earl Chester Tuten of Bellefonte. This furnishes a candidate for every position on the ticket but one viz: Legislature for which position there is but one candidate, Mr. Schoonover of Philipsburg whose nomination is generally conceeded. Mr. Tuten is not aware of this action of his friends, but we are assured by them, that if he is nominated, he will accept. His friends have taken the opportunity to announce his name, while he is busy carrying mail at the Bellefonte Post Office.

AXE MANN ITEMS.

Reuben Breon of Rockview, has sold his home near Axe Mann, to Elsie E. Sunday of this same place. Possessions to be given Oct. 1st. This will necessitate Mrs. C. J. Beck the present incumbent to look out for some other place.

Wm. Martin the supervisor of Spring Township near this place is doing good work on the roads.

Mrs. Henry Uhl and John C. Rote are in the doctors hands at present.

The outlook for a good crop of oats never was better than they are now in this vicinity.

The McKee's Gap Mail Rifling.

"Dressed in the height of fashion,' says Friday's Pittsburg Post, "a beautiful little woman arrived in Pittsburg last night with a government detective at each side of her. She was quietly escorted to the office of William T. Lindsey, clerk of the United States District court, where she was charged with having rifled the registered mail at McKee's Gap, where her father has been postmaster for nine years.

The woman is a bride of only a few months. She is Mrs. Margaret Reich, who lives near Rochester, Pa. She frankly admitted that she had taken money from registered mail aggregating $500, and possibly more. She said she commenced this practice last fall, having taken as high as $50 at a time. In February she was married and she and her husband went to housekeeping at Bridgewater. After this, until two weeks ago, the rifling of the mails at her old home ceased.

Two weeks ago, however, Mrs. Reich went back to visit her father, Postmaster John Bonner, at McKee's Gap. Shortly after the woman's arrival in the village money was missed from a registered letter. Thursday the inspectors informed Postmaster Bonner that suspicion had been fixed on his daughter. Mr. Bonner went at once with them to where she was visiting a sister.

Mrs. Riech calmly confessed her guilt and was brought to Pittsburg, where Clerk Lindsey placed her bond at $1,000 for appearance at the October term of court. Her father accompanied her to the city voluntarily and furnished her bond, also agreeing to make good every cent she had stolen.

Mr. Bonner's official record is without a flaw, and he bears the esteem of the entire community. Mrs. Reich returned home with him, glad to escape being locked up.

Let Them Take The Field.

The young women of the flourishing little city of Fremont, O., encouraged by the oratorical crusade of an aggressive preacher, have resolved to take the young men of the town in hand and labor for their reformation. They have resolved, to the number of 200, that the boys must abide by the rules of their organization or be barred from their society. The lady President of the Good Behavior Union describes the plans of action proposed:

"We will lay down the rules insisting on total abstinence from swearing, lying, stealing, keeping late hours or bad company, gambling, drinking and smoking. From all these things must these boys and young men refrain in order to be eligible to our companionship. Committees will be appointed and assigned to probe the characters of 'shady' men, and will report back to the union, which will then take action as the circumstances warrant. Every young man will have a rating, which will be bettered or lowered as reports of his actions justify. We will spare no effort to ferret the 'black sheep,' and will boycott them completely."

The great danger of the effectiveness of this plan of moral reform is that there will be apt to be differences of opinion and divided juries among the young ladies, but in a way the rules of conduct laid down will strengthen the tempted and weak. Young women have demonstrated the power in promoting social reform and good conduct, and they are working legitimately when they seek to enforce it.

Death of an Aged Lady.

Miss Nancy Pearce, one of the oldest citizens of Penns Valley, died at her home at Potters Mills, on Saturday July 27th, 1902, at the advanced aged of eighty-seven years.

Miss Pearce from childhood, was a devout christian and a life long member of the Methodist Church, and lived up to the full measure of her profession, and was a most beautiful example of christian love and faith. When her eyes closed to the scenes of this world, her friends had the comforting assurance, they opened to behold Christ in His glory. It is said that during the last thirty years of her life she had not failed to read God's blessed Book entirely through each year, and she read with understanding, and practiced its beautiful precepts in her every day life.

She was the daughter of Rev. Marmaduke Pearce a pioneer Methodist minister, and resided all her life in Centre County, and for many years past, with her sister Jane, who still survives her. She is also survived by her brother Rev. John J. Pearce, of the Central Pennsylvania Conference M. E. Church, and was an aunt of Mrs. Margaret Hutchison of Bellefonte, Mrs. Kate Hughes McCormick of State College; and Charles Pearce Hughes, Esq., of Erie.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning, services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Haven, pastor of the Penns Valley Circuit. Interment at Sprucetown Cemetery.

—Every friend of the brute creation should promptly forward to his or her Senator and Representative an emphatic protest against the bill recently reported by the House Committee on Commerce and which has for its object the extension of the period for which cattle in transit may be kept without rest, food or water from 28 hours to 40 hours. The suffering which will be occasioned these dumb creatures by the passage of the law is appalling.

A Year Without a Summer.

In 1816 there was a sharp frost every month of the year in the northern states. In May ice formed half an inch thick in Hartford, buds and flowers were frozen and corn was killed in the adjacent towns. Frost, ice and snow were common in June throughout Connecticut, and snow fell five inches deep in New York and in Massachusetts ten inches deep on June 19th.

July was accompanied with frost and ice. On the 5th ice formed to the thickness of a window glass in Canton, Conn., and throughout New England and Pennsylvania corn was nearly all destroyed in many sections. In August ice formed an inch thick in Litchfield. A cold northern wind prevailed nearly all summer, with heavy rainfalls. Corn was frozen so that a greater part was cut down and dried in fodder. Farmers were obliged to pay $4 or $5 a bushel for corn of 1815 for seed for the next spring's planting.

—There is an admirable modesty about the Rev. John Thompson of Rockford, Ill., who declines to use the "D. D." recently conferred on him because he believes that the title should be "reserved for men who have displayed extraordinary attainments or have accomplished great things in their work."

—The month of July 1902 is approaching its close and nobody can accuse it of having been a specially hot month in this section of the planet. It is true there have been some hot days, but the weather has been rather moderate, as a rule, while the nights have on more than one occasion been decidedly cool.

—It is stated that several of Mendelsohn's "Songs Without Words" were composed by his sister who attributed their authorship to her brother because it was not considered proper for a woman to compose music. Does the former existence of such a sentiment account for the small number of women composers?

BIRTH OF AN ICEBERG.

The Dramatic Experience of Two Antarctic Explorers.

Mr. C. E. Borchgrevink, commander of the antarctic expedition of 1898, nearly lost his life by an accident of a nature so peculiar that it is probable no other man could duplicate the experience. At the foot of Mount Terror in February, 1900, he landed from his ship with Captain Jensen and three other men. Then, wishing to take a picture of the shore, he sent his boat back to the vessel to get a camera, and he and Captain Jensen were left alone on the rough beach. Before the boat returned a strange and awful thing happened. Mr. Borchgrevink told the story in the Outlook:

A roar and a rush, with tremendous explosions, shook the beach. The thought came to us that the perpendicular rocks above us were falling. Then we realized what was taking place. The mighty glacier immediately to the west of us was giving birth to an iceberg.

Millions of tons of ice plunged into the ocean. We could see nothing beyond an immense cloud of rolling snow. The water rose from the plunge of this antarctic monarch. I sang out to Jensen, "Now we shall have to face the wave!"

We rushed to the highest point of our limited beach, four feet above the sea. We saw advancing on us a dark green ridge with a white crest. I called to Jensen to struggle for dear life. We clutched the uneven rocks, with our backs toward the advancing water. Although it could not have taken more than seven minutes the time seemed long before the water closed over our heads.

Floating upward, scrambling upon the rocks, I tore the nails from my flesh in my endeavor to keep from being dragged out. After the second wave we again felt the rocks under our feet.

At the place where Jensen and I first stood the rock was wet twenty feet above our heads. It was somewhat lower when it struck us. Where the wave had struck with full force the face of the rock had been altered, and rocks were still falling when the three men in the boat found us, bleeding and torn.

Two facts had saved us. To our right a small peninsula of ice protruded some five feet from the rock, and the rock itself bent toward the west. From the moment it struck the curve of the mountain rock to the west of us the wave took a course more easterly than where Jensen and I stood.

An Anecdote of Wordsworth.

A contributor to the London Spectator thus writes to that journal:

Your interesting article on "Vastness and Isolation" recalls to my mind Wordsworth's own interpretation of the lines—

> Those obstinate questionings
> Of sense and outward things,
> Fallings from us, vanishings—

as reported to me by the late Professor Bonamy Price. One day as he was walking with the poet in the hills he asked him what he meant precisely by the words "fallings from us, vanishings." Wordsworth's answer was to this effect: "Sometimes I find myself in a mood in which the whole material universe seems to fall away. The sense of outward things is lost. Nothing remains but an immaterial self, detached from all physical conditions. In order to get back into the known world of consciousness I have to clutch at something—so." Here he grasped the bar of the gate on which they were leaning at the moment. I was much struck by the story at the time and made a note of it.

George Washington's Sobriquets.

Washington was called by many sobriquets. He was first of all "Father of His Country." "Providence left him childless that his country might call him father." Sigourney calls him "Pater Patriæ;" Chief Justice Marshall, the "American Fabius." Lord Byron in his "Ode to Napoleon" calls him "The Cincinnatus of the West." For having a new world on his shoulders he was called the "Atlas of America." The English soldiery called him by the sarcastic nickname of "Lovely Georgius." Red Jacket, the Seneca Indian chief, called him the "Flower of the Forest." The Italian poet Vittorio Alfieri called him "Deliverer of America." In The Gazette of the United States he was called the "Savior of His Country." His bitter opponents sarcastically called him the "Stepfather of His Country" during his presidency.

Dangers of Procrastination.

Landlady—I s'pose you noticed that long whiskered old gentleman who sat opposite you at dinner today? That is Professor Driebones, and you can have his room, as he is going west on a scientific exploration—strangest thing you ever heard.

New Boarder—What is?

Landlady—The object of his tour. He has been told that a prehistoric cave has been discovered out west, and in it sat ten skeletons around a petrified table.

New Boarder—Well, well! Why didn't the fools change their boarding house sooner?

Tea In the Time of Buddha.

At the time of Buddha China was enjoying a large foreign commerce in tea. It was carried by her junks to Japan, Korea, Tonquin, Anam, Cochin, Burma, Siam, India, Ceylon, Persia and Arabia. According to one record, it was sent to a great black river country west of Arabia, from which it was separated by a long and very torrid sea, which must have been Egypt. It was carried by caravans to Manchuria, Mongolia, Kuldja, Tartary, Tibet, Persia and northern India.

A BARGAIN IN HATS.

The Reason One Woman Rejoices While Another One Mourns.

A Philadelphia woman moving in good society has been cured of a mania for attending rummage sales, but it took a heroic treatment to effect the cure. The other day she went to a sale of the description named in aid of a worthy charity in which she is interested and came away minus a twenty-five dollar hat. It happened this way:

A feature of the sale was a counter filled with untrimmed hats, advertised "Your choice for 50 cents." Now, the North Thirty-third street woman didn't want an untrimmed hat at 50 cents, but there was one that caught her fancy by reason of its odd shape, and she simply couldn't resist the temptation to try it on. So she took off the handsome hat she was wearing, placed it on the counter and picked up the untrimmed one. Then she looked around for a mirror. There was only one, and that was away at the other end of the long room.

She pushed her way through the crowd, and in the meantime a fat colored woman's eyes were glued to the hat she had left behind on the pile marked, "Your choice for 50 cents." It was a golden opportunity not to be missed. Counting out 50 cents in dimes, nickels and pennies, she shoved them at the innocent young attendant and made good her escape with the fashionable woman's hat.—Exchange.

The Queen Bee.

She possesses the power of choosing which of her offspring shall be drones and which workers. Some have thought that this was automatic and that the narrower worker cell touched the button, so to speak, that brought forth a fertilized egg. But the queen will lay worker eggs in drone cells if she thinks fit, so that settles that.

If the drone is male and the queen female, what is the worker? The new woman of Beedom. She has given up her motherhood for a business career. Sometimes, though, she lays eggs, but they always hatch out drones, of which it is strictly true to say they have a mother, but no father. If the queen's wings are crippled so that she cannot make her marriage flight, her children are all drones. An Italian queen in a hive of black bees will beget workers of mixed blood, but her sons are pure Italians. Drones are useful as fathers of workers, but they cannot collect the honey they eat. Their tongues are too short.—Ainslee's.

Lightning and Watches.

"An electrical storm seems to have a peculiar effect on some timepieces," remarked the junior partner of a big downtown jewelry firm. "Every time lightning and thunder get active in this vicinity one of the results is that our watch repairing department is overworked for several days thereafter. The damage wrought chiefly consists of broken mainsprings.

"When business gets dull with us," added the jeweler jokingly, "we require all our employees to pray for a thunderstorm. Failure to comply with this order is considered sufficient cause for discharge. I am unable to make clear the whys and wherefores, but it is an established fact that after the lightning has frolicked awhile in come the watches with mainsprings wrecked."—Washington Star.

Wanted Rainwater.

"Boy, bring me a large pitcher of rainwater and a small pitcher of well water," said the woman from the country who just had been assigned to a room in one of the fashionable uptown hotels. "Yes'm," said the boy, with an air of "Now, what kind of a drink's that? It's a new one on me."

At the bar they turned him down. "It's no mineral waters she wants. Just draw two pitchers of Croton from the faucets and pass 'em up to her. Rainwater! I ain't heard of it since I was a boy and lived in the country," said the bartender. "You couldn't use it if you could find it in New York."—New York Press.

Followed Their Mutual Beat.

"Those boys were alike as two peas, and I hear they're much the same now."

"What business are they in?"

"One's a hypnotist, and t'other's a commercial traveler."—Detroit Free Press.

Even the Effort Counts.

"I allus try to be a gentleman," said Uncle Eben. "Mighty few people succeeds, but de fact dat anybody's makin' de effort counts a heap to his credit."—Washington Star.

Morbid Sensitiveness.

The surest way to conquer morbid sensitiveness is to mingle with people as freely as possible, and, while appraising your own ability and intelligence at least as impartially as you would those of a friend or acquaintance, to forget yourself. Unless you can become unconscious of self you will never either appear at your best or do the best of which you are capable, says a writer in Success. It requires will power and an unbending determination to conquer this arch enemy to success, but what has been done can be done, and many who were held down by it for years have by their own efforts outgrown it and risen to commanding positions.

"Lookin' fer a bird's nest, sonny?" asked the good natured westerner of a seven-year-old boy whom he met in Boston common.

"No, sir," replied the intellectual prodigy as he continued to gaze up into the tree, "I am merely endeavoring to correctly classify this tree as a botanical product."—Ohio State Journal.

Eye Specialist!

of Williamsport, will make his monthly visit here

ONE DAY ONLY,

Wed. Aug. 27,

from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., with headquarters at

THE GARMAN HOUSE
Bellefonte, Pa.

I can examine your eyes at your home, by appointment, without extra charge.

If you need me at your home drop me a line in care of Garman Honse.

Hundreds are going blind daily, from the need of the proper prescribed glasses and from delaying attention to the eyes from time to time. Nothing will destroy your eyesight quicker than cheap glasses or glasses not properly fitted to your eyes.

Prof. Angel, in the short time he has been visiting this section, has met with marked success. Scores of leading citizens of this community have found relief from his treatment. It is not necessary to travel to Eastern cities for treatment when you can consult an eminent oculist at home.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to section ten of article one of the Constitution, so that a discharge of a jury for failure to agree or other necessary cause shall not work an acquittal.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following be proposed as an amendment to the Constitution; that is to say, that section ten of article one, which reads as follows:

"No person shall, for any indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally by information, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war or public danger, or by leave of the court for oppression or misdemeanor in office. No person shall, for the same offense, be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall private property be taken or applied to public use, without authority of law and without just compensation being first made or secured." be amended so as to read as follows:

No person shall, for any indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally by information except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger, or by leave of the court for oppression or misdemeanor in office. No person shall, for the same offense, be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; but a discharge of the jury for failure to agree, or other necessary cause, shall not work an acquittal. Nor shall private property be taken or applied to public use, without authority of law and without just compensation being first made or secured.

—Mothers lose their dread for that terrible second summer when they have Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house. Nature's specific for bowel complaint of every sort.

Additional Locals.

—David Miller, Centre county's latest murderer, is one of the auditors of Rush township.

—Bertha, the little daughter of William Hill, is quite ill at her home on West Logan street.

—Miss Nettie Newman who has been seriously ill for the past week has so far recovered that she is able to be out again.

—A new boiler house is being erected and a new boiler placed in position at the Armor Gap quarry of the American Lime & Stone Company.

—The families of railway mail clerks, who are killed while on duty, will receive $1,000, according to an item incorporated in the postal appropriation bill by the senate postoffice committee.

—Samuel Leitzel who runs the "dinkey" engine at the Armor Gap quarry of the American Lime & Stone Company is erecting a new house for himself on the corner of Beaver and Ridge streets.

—The W. C. T. U., Star Course for the coming season promises to excel in every way the one given our public last year. The tickets will be somewhat higher, but much more is promised for your money.

—Both children and grown people in Centre Hall are afflicted with whooping cough, and when there is nothing especially doing those having the old but peculiar disease, are whooping 'er up in great style.—Centre Reporter.

—J. S. Brooks, of Curtin's Works, has just received a draft for $1200 from the Brotherhood of Trainmen for the loss of his leg. He met with the accident while breaking on the Beech Creek road at Lock Lomond Junction last April.

—A tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men was instituted at this place last week, with a membership of fifty-seven. Their meeting place for the present, is at the Logan Hose House, but they expect to have permanent quarters in the near future.

—All who ever visited State College will remember the beautiful maples that overhung the avenue on the campus that leads from the village past the Engineering building to the main building and will learn with regret that they have been cut down. The reason for this is to give the young elms planted a few years ago a chance to grow.

—Thomas A. Shoemaker, Esq., entertained the following distinguished company of gentlemen at an elaborate dinner Saturday evening given at the Nittany Rod and Gun Club in honor of Mr. Harrison, Chief Engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad: Messrs. George F. Harris, M. D., John M. Dale, John M. Shugert, John Blanchard, Harry Fenlon and George R. Meek.

—During a thunder storm a few days ago while the west bound train on the Lewistown and Tyrone railroad was running between Millmont and Glen Iron lightning struck a telegraph pole as the train was passing and part of the bolt entered the passenger coach in the form of a large ball of fire. No one was hurt but some of the passengers were considerably frightened.

—A house situated on the Roopeburg road near Bellefonte, occupied by Mr. Alex. Campbell was struck by lightning about 3 o'clock Friday morning during the electric storm. The chimney was thrown down, and the house set on fire, which fortunately was discovered and extinguished before much damage was done. No one was injured, but the shock was felt severely by the members of the family.

—Ex-Sheriff, W. M. Cronister, of Port Matilda, who is not only well and favorably known here but throughout the county has about concluded negotiations for the purchase of the Owens Hardware Co's big establishment at Philipsburg. The inventory is now being taken, at the conclusion of which the new proprietor will assume charge. We wish Mr. Cronister much success in his new venture.

—The Town Council had some Job Printing done last week but for some unaccountable reason it was not given us to do. We feel a little sore over the slight, as our paper is the only one that reports the proceedings of council. Certainly it was an oversight on the part of the Street Committee, for they would hardly do such a thing intentionally, but all the same we will still continue to devote the usual amount of space to their doings.

—The Box Social held at the Lutheran Church Thursday night was not only entertaining, but a financial success as well. The interesting feature of the evening, was when the boxes were opened, each purchaser being anxious to known with whom they would divide and eat the lunch. The ladies were all excitement, for fear the right person had not gotten their card, but fortunately, every one appeared to be satisfied and happy. The net proceeds were $20.00.

—Dr. Thomas R. Hayes is making some great improvements at his handsome home on North Allegheny street. He has erected a one story brown stone building which is attached to the main building and which is to be fitted up as a lavatory with all modern conveniences. Besides this the driveway leading up to the house is being paved with stone all cut to a certain size. The work is being done by Messrs. W. W. and S. A. Bell, which is a guarantee that everything will be first class.

—Wm. Breon, a member of Co B, is ill with typhoid fever at his home on Howard street.

—Alex. Campbell, an old soldier and good citizen, is seriously ill at his residence in Bush Addition.

—Mr. Bruce Garman has given up housekeeping and now occupies apartments at the Garman House.

—The Sabbath Schools of Salona and Mackeyville held a united picnic at Hecla Park Friday about 500 persons attended.

—Eleven cases of smallpox are reported at Rockton, Clearfield county. There are two new cases of smallpox reported at Jersey Shore.

—The Palace Livery was so unfortunate as to have a valuable horse die Wednesday caused by congestion of the lungs, it belonged to one of their finest mated teams which makes the loss very severe.

—The once famous "Foust's Hotel" on the summit of the seven mountains along the turnpike leading from Potters Mills to Millroy is no more. The building was recently destroyed by fire and is now in ruins.

—Daniel Geary came near losing his left eye on Monday. While he, with several men, was engaged in making logs on J. W. Musser's lumber job in Penn township, a chip flew into his eye injuring it severely.

—On Tuesday evening as the young daughter of Linn Kerstetter was walking on the sidepath on the turnpike near F. M. Stevenson's in Penn township, Henry Wingard, of Coburn, coming along on a bicycle ran over the child and broke her leg.

—A Butler county judge decides that boroughs can not only tax peddlers who sell within the borough limits, but persons who sell by orders as well. Selling "by orders" was a loop hole long used by out-of-town grocerymen, etc., to evade taxes imposed by borough ordinances.

—Lowell Wolfe Stover, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Stover, of Woodward, fell into a spring near that place on Friday and was drowned. He was the only child of his parents and a bright little boy. His age was 1 year, 5 months and 15 days. Funeral services were held on Sunday. Interment at Woodward, Rev. Owen L. Buck conducting the services.

The "Bellefonters" go into Camp.

The "Bellefonters" with a few other kindred spirits left Friday morning on the Central R. R. for Mill Hall where they expect to go into camp for ten days on Sandersons Island near that place.

We hope the boys will have a good time, that they will have all the fishing, boating and swimming they want and that nothing will occur to mar the pleasure of the expedition. The personnel of the party were as follows: Hassel Montgomery, Guy McEntire, Malcolm Mitchell, Hugh Crider, Robt. Valentine, Lee Walker, Fred Lane, Ed. Keichline and Louis Daggett, they took with them as chef the renownded Charles Foreman.

Washington Timber.

His Calvinized Hat.

"A generation or two ago," said a Boston clergyman, "old Dr. Ellis was a well known figure in Boston, being one of our famous Unitarian ministers, a friend of many of the transcendentalists. He used always to wear a white panama hat in summer. The same hat did him season after season, yet it never seemed to lose any of its fresh whiteness.

"One day a minister of the old persuasion and very pronounced in his orthodoxy asked Dr. Ellis how he kept his hat so white.

"'That is easy,' said the doctor, 'for it has been Calvinized.'

"'What?' said the other minister. 'How do you galvanize a hat?'

"'I said Calvinized,' replied the Unitarian.

"'But what do you mean by that?'

"'Dipped in brimstone,' said Dr. Ellis."—New York Tribune.

An Amusing Incident.

Our jocular friend, Hard P. Harris, was the victim of (we cannot call it a joke) an amusing circum-tance Wednesday night. He had retired at the usual hour and was sleeping peacefully, the sleep of the just, when his slumber was disturbed by the telephone ringing. He got out of bed, and went down stairs and answered the phone. No one being at the other end, he called the exchange to know the occasion for the disturbance. The operator told him she had not called his house so Mr. Hard went to his room and snuggled up in bed again. In a few moments he heard the telephone ring again, so once more he made a journey down stairs in scant apparel, and as before, no one wanted him. Muttering to himself something about the weather being cool, he sought repose another time, but still the telephone was getting in its work. This time he determined to resort to drastic measure, and hunted around until he found something to muffle the ringing machine. When he had this accomplished, and was starting to his chamber once more, he heard the bell again. This time it was the front door bell. He went to the door, and found a gentleman who had been faithfully and persistently pushing the button for the last half hour and wondering why it did not receive attention. Hard explained to the satisfaction of his visitor, and made up his mind that after this, when he hears a ring it will be the front door he will answer first.

Death of George Housel.

Mr. George Housel and old and respected citizen of our town, died very suddenly Thursday morning at the residence of his son, Uriah Housel, near the McCalmont & Co. lime quarry. Mr. Housel complained of not feeling very well Wednesday, but retired at his usual hour. He evidently was taken sick during the night, for he had arisen and sat in a chair, and was found in that position with life extinct. He was aged about 75 years and was born in Union County, most of his life being spent in Centre County following the vocation of farmer, in Walker and Spring Townships. His wife died about eighteen years ago, since which, he has made his home with different members of his family.

He was an honest and industrious man and a consistent member of St. John's Lutheran Church. He is survived by one brother Benj. Housel of Bellefonte and the following children, Mrs. Richard Lutz, Mrs. Calvin Gates, Mrs. William Halderman, Uriah and Foster of Bellefonte, and Mrs. George Harpster of Warriorsmark. The funeral took place on Saturday at 10 o'clock a. m. there was a short service at the house after which services were held in the Lutheran church at Zion, where interment was made.

A Narrow Escape.

Wednesday afternoon as the train from Snow Shoe, consisting of seven or eight cars of coal, box car and passenger coach attached, were nearing the switch-backs on the Snow Shoe road one of the trucks of the box car left the rail; fortunately the coupler broke, but not until the passenger car was thrown from the track, almost going over a steep precipice. The passengers were badly scared and shaken up, but no one injured, except a young man who jumped from the car and sprained his ankle.

It was a Providential escape, for had it not stopped just where it did the coach would have rolled down the mountain side, possibly killing everyone within. Martin Reese, the conductor, sent the engine and coal cars to Intersection, and the engine went back for the passengers who crowded upon the tender and were brought to Bellefonte.

To Stop Profanity on our Streets.

Mayor Blanchard might learn a lesson in improving the morals of our town, from the action of the Mayor of Altoona, who has determined to put a stop to profanity on the streets.

Mayor Hoyer of that City, one day this week, fined a man $50 for swearing in the presence of a lady, and intends to visit the same condign punishment on all offenders brought before him on the same charge. This is a move in the right direction and Altoona's mayor should be commended for the stand he has taken.

We hope Mayor Blanchard will imitate his example, for profanity is a low, disgusting and degrading habit, and no gentleman will be guilty of the offense, especially in the presence of ladies and children. Let our citizens organize an anti-swearing league and we have no doubt that our Mayor will give every aid to stamp out the evil.

Concerning Water Street.

The Street Committee of Council through their clerk, delivered notice to the property holders along Water Street, that on Monday evening August 4th, the Council would adopt an ordinance to lay out a street to be known as Water Street. All persons interested can have the privilege of being present at that meeting, to be heard in relation to the matter, if they so desire.

The ordinance, in Section first, gives the courses and distances, as prepared by the Borough Engineer. In the second section it gives the width, which runs from forty feet at High Street to thirty feet at Lamb street. This conflicts, somewhat, with the resolution adopted by the Council at its last meeting, making a uniform width of forty feet. Of course the Council can reconcile this difference, as they can do about anything they wish, without regard to law, equity, or the wishes of the people.

There will, no doubt, be a full representation of those interested, at the next meeting, as by this ordinance, the Council lays no claim to the road running along the creek, which gives the owners of the property their right to the water's edge, and there may some little difficulty when the question of damages is presented. At this point will observe, that the Council nor any private individual, has the right to encroach farther into the creek than the original lines of said stream can be shown, there will be no trouble until after Bellefonte Fuel and Supply company's property is passed; from there down will be an interesting proposition. As the stream will be much more narrow there, than above, but the people need not worry, the Council will put the matter through whether it be in a legal manner or not. They make everything go, except the new pump at the water works, and the $25000 issue of bonds, and just here, would remind the Water Committee, that the pump is still in the hands of the Borough, AND WILL HAVE TO BE PAID FOR, and as for the $25000, issue of illegal bonds, no investors have been found to take them, nor will they, people with money are not anxious to buy a law suit.

Penn's Cave Lighted Up With Acetylene Gas.

Last Wednesday about twenty-five of the representative citizens through the valley, gathered by special invitation to witness the illumination of this wonderful freak of nature, by the new light—acetylene gas.

The generator, a small portable one, was built by Sober & Porter, of Lewisburg, especially for this occasion, with the generating chamber of glass, so that all might see the process of converting calcium carbide into acetylene gas. Attached to this generator was a standard with twelve burners having a lighting capacity of over 500 candle power.

At 11.30, all being in readiness, the first load with the lighting apparatus aboard, was pushed from the landing and the trip was one of great pleasure to all. The intensely brilliant light revealed countless numbers of nooks, formations, etc., which have taken ages to form by the silent work of nature.

W. W. Smith, the photographer, was one of the party and obtained an excellent view, the first one ever possible to get, owing to the intense darkness, but with acetylene light the heretofore impossible has been solved and wonders never cease.

This demonstration of modern light was in charge of J. F. Rearick, agent, of Spring Mills, and F. E. Porter, the inventor of the Sober & Porter generator, of Lewisburg, Pa.

The Reservoir.

We took a walk Friday evening to the reservoir and examined the new wall being built to increase its capacity. We are no experts in masonry, but in our opinion, the work is being well done, and if the old part is strong enough to withstand the increased pressure, there is but little danger of its not holding sufficient water for every emergency. In addition to the wall, the Committee is putting a backing of eight feet of rock and clay on the outside, which will prevent the frost from doing any injury.

John Noll contractor, is giving personal attention to the work, and it will not be his fault, if it does not do all that is required.

—Messrs. E. L. Hoy, Tom Beaver, and Burgess Blanchard entertained the following distinguished guests at the "House of Lords" Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Ross A. Hickok, Misses Margery Knowles and Harriet Gilbert, Messrs Frank Hall and Gregg Curtin, and from the quantity of provender Ed and Ned had in their carriage there is little danger of their suffering from hunger. Miss Knowles had charge of the supplies and we venture to say they had a spread fit for ye gods.

Gloomy thoughts become habitual to the dyspeptic. He looks on the dark side of things and every mole hill becomes a mountain. His condition affects his business judgment and mars his home relations.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It gives buoyancy of mind as well as health of body because it removes the physical cause of mental depression.

It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, and the body is strengthened by nutrition which is the only source of physical strength.

"I was afflicted with what the doctors called nervous indigestion. Took medicine from my family physician to no avail," writes Mr. Thos. G. Lever, of Lever, Richland Co., S. C. "At night would have cold or hot feet and hands, alternately. I was getting very nervous and suffered a great deal mentally, thinking that death would soon claim me. Always expected something unusual to take place; was irritable and impatient, and greatly reduced in flesh. I could scarcely eat any thing that would not produce a bad feeling in my stomach. After some hesitation, I decided to try a few bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pellets.' After taking several bottles of each, found I was improving. I continued for six months or more, off and on. I have to be careful yet, at times, of what I eat, in order that I may feel good and strong. I fully believe if any one suffering with indigestion or torpid liver or chronic cold would take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets' and observe a few simple hygienic rules, they would soon be greatly benefited, and with a little perseverance would be entirely cured."

A Family Reunion.

The relatives and friends to the number of about forty met Thursday at the pleasant and cheerful home of Mrs. Mark Williams, near Axe Mann, to celebrate their annual reunion. Friends from Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Johnstown, Bellefonte and vicinity were present. The day was beautiful, not a cloud to mar the happiness or pleasure of anyone, except one vacant chair, which was occupied last year by A. V. Hamilton, who since then has been called to join those who have passed to the other shore. A sumptuous repast was served, which everyone enjoyed, and the fragments left would have satisfied the appetite of as many more.

One lady seemed rather indignant as the apple pie was being passed and said:

I loathe, abhor, detest despise,
Nothing so much as dried apple pies.
I like good bread and meat,
Or anything that is good to eat,
But of all poor grub beneath the skies
The poorest is dried apple pies.

Give me the toothache or sore eyes,
In preference to such kind of pies.
The farmer takes his knuckliest fruit
'Tis coring better and to boot.
They leave the hulls to make us cough
And don't take half the peelings off.

Then on a dirty cord they're strung
And from some chamber window hung,
And there they serve a roost for flies
Until they are ready to make pies.
Tread on my corns until I sigh
But do not pass the dried apple pies.

Many other bright and witty sayings were indulged in to enliven the meal. At four o'clock, bidding farewell to the hostess and wishing many happy returns, the guests retired to their homes.

Clayton Brown amused himself fishing along Logan Branch, catching several fine trout, which he presented to Mrs. Williams.

A Defunct Industry.

Monday of last week saw the removal of the last load of bark from the sheds of the Moshannon tannery at this place and "finis" may be written of leather tanning in Philipsburg.

For at least 25 years this tannery was a leading industry here, furnishing steady employment at good pay to a large number of men, and providing a market for all the bark that this scope of territory yielded.

The original firm, known as Munson, Holt, White & Co., comprised the late Chester Munson and D. W. Holt, of this place; Wm. McClellan, of Bellefonte, and a man named White, of Stroudsburg, and during the pinching times along in the early seventies, it proved the salvation of hundreds of poor people who could bring a jag of bark to the tannery, get a good price for it and thus sustain life when other avenues were closed to them.

When the tannery was purchased by Fayerweather & Ladew a new era of prosperity dawned upon it, and under the energetic management of J. B. Childs the Moshannon tannery was a perfect hive of industry and the output became famous for its excellent quality. After the death of Messrs. Fayerweather and Ladew their heirs accepted the offer of the United States Leather company to purchase the plant and then the evil days drew nigh, when gradually the old Moshannon got squeezed out; shut downs were frequent and, finally, the entire plant was abandoned and silence and ruin now reign where the busy hum of industry was formerly heard. The employes scattered to other scenes of labor, the great smoke stacks ceased to belch forth soot and stood, grim sentinels, over the deserted industry, while the mammoth bark sheds sheltered hundreds of tons of bark that would never be used here. Now that has been shipped away, the final load leaving on Monday, and the process of dismantlement is going on as rapidly as possible.

It's a sorry tale for Philipsburg, but it is the same old story of the old making way for the new. Invention has lessened the cost of producing leather at least 25 per cent. and the old tanneries must either be rebuilt or abandoned, and in a country like ours, where the timber is all cut and the bark supply exhausted, it would be folly to pursue any but the latter course.—Philipsburg Ledger.

INQUEST BEGUN.

Coroner Miller Begins an Inquiry Into Cause of the Johnstown Mine Disaster.

MINUS UNUSUAL INCIDENT

Eleven Facts Which Have Been Established by the Testimony of the Twelve Witnesses Heard.

INQUEST WILL CONTINUE TO-DAY

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. July 24.—The Coroner's investigation into the Rolling Mill mine explosion on July 10, in which 112 men were killed, began yesterday.

The majority of the men called to the stand by Coroner Miller were miners. The testimony of one, Valek Salla, a Pole, was intensely interesting. Salla said he had worked in the Rolling Mill mine a year and a half and had been in the Klondike for a year. He said he was knocked down by the force of the concussion caused by the explosion, and his lamp was extinguished. He found his way into No. 4 room, where he relighted his lamp. He did not know what caused the concussion in the air, and returned to his room, and was there an hour after the explosion, filling his car. Then the fire bosses and Labor Boss William Blanch, he said, came and told him to get out of the mine and go home. He said he started out of his room and walked over a number of bodies. Some of the men, he said, were dead and some still living. He was at that time on the sidetrack in the Klondike, and when he reached the upper end of it he was overcome by the afterdamp and fell down. He had his bucket with him and took a drink of coffee, he said, then got up and walked to room No. 2 or No. 3 in the right heading before he fell again. There he remained, he said, and did not know anything further until he was taken from the mine. He said he thought the smoke from the explosion had killed the men he saw lying dead.

Perhaps the most important witness of the afternoon was W. H. Morris, of this city, superintendent of the operations of the Merchants' Coal Company, at Boswell, and formerly superintendent of mines here for the Cambria Steel Company. Mr. Morris testified that gas had always existed in the Rolling Mill mine, the mine generating it, as many other mines do. He said the mine generated gas at all times, and that the pillar workings had always been considered the most dangerous, and that no miner was allowed to work pillars unless he used a safety lamp.

When Mr. Morris was nearly through his testimony, Juror Smith asked him what had caused the explosion. "I would rather not express an opinion as to what caused the explosion," said Mr. Morris. "One thing is certain, some one lighted it."

Mr. Morris testified that the mine was examined every morning between 3 and 4 o'clock by the fire bosses, and if they found indications of gas it was their duty to put up danger signals and warn the men, the danger signals remaining up until the condition of the part of the mine in which they were posted were considered safe.

"The men are not given safety lamps that they might work in gas," said Mr. Morris. "At least, I never have understood that to be the object of safety lamps. They are provided so that gas might be detected, and in that case the lamp will warn the miner. Every lamp that is given to a miner is supposed to be securely locked by the fire boss before it leaves his hands. That is one of his duties. The lamps are carefully cleaned every morning and tested before they are given to the men.

"I have known of cases in which safety lamps were opened. The lock is very simple and may easily be picked. I have known of miners to open their safety lamps. They are provided so that gas might be detected, and in that case the lamp will warn the miner. Every lamp that is given to a miner is supposed to be securely locked by the fire boss before it leaves his hands. That is one of his duties. The lamps are carefully cleaned every morning and tested before they are given to the men.

"I have known of cases in which safety lamps were opened. The lock is very simple and may easily be picked. I have known of miners to open their safety lamps to light a pipe. Or they have been known to sneak the little open lamps into the mine in their pockets, and, after getting to their room, open the safety, light the small lamp, and work by its radiance, while the safety is hung back on a prop and not used. Cases like these in the Rolling Mill mine have been punished. I remember cases of the kind, and one of the men was instantly discharged."

The most interesting story of the afternoon was that told on the stand by Tony Bohlar, an Austro-Hungarian, who worked in the sixth left heading, and was there when the explosion occurred. He is one of the men who was taken from the mine Friday afternoon. The witness described the sensation produced by the explosion as that of being squeezed, as though the air were crowded around him by some monster force. He said everything seemed to stop for a second or two and his ears seemed stopped up, so that he could not hear anything.

Bohlar said he knew an explosion had caused the peculiar sensation he noticed. The after-damp, he said, was not felt for an hour after the explosion. He was half a mile from the explosion and heard no report, the concussion of air being noticeable.

Must Release Pet Birds.

Under an act which became a law by being passed by a Kentucky Legislature everybody in that state who has a bird of any kind, except a canary, caged or in any way in captivity, is violating the law, and is laying him or herself liable to a fine and imprisonment.

In Henderson there are many mocking birds and other species in captivity. Those who are thus violating the law, no matter how strongly attached to their feathered songsters, must open their doors and liberate them. Though no vigorous effort has been made to enforce the law as yet, it will soon be made. Those interested in this law, which is for the protection of the birds, are sending out circulars all over the state, and when the people are acquainted with the law they must comply with it or take the consequences.

Agents Not Their Own Bosses.

Bearing the date of July 1st, at which time it went into effect, a new order of stringent nature has been sent to each of the stations on the division superintended by C. A. Preston, the successor of the of the late E. B. Westfall. It requires every station agent to obtain permission from the superintendent before leaving his town for any reason. The purpose of this rule is set forth to be to enable the superintendent to know just where the agents are at all times.

Post Cards Redeemable.

Orders have been issued by the postmaster general to all postmasters for the redemption of uncancelled and unserviceable postal cards. The order applies to all cards which have not been bronzed or enameled and which are not mutilated. Heretofore postal cards have not been redeemable, but holders were permitted to cover any printing they may have done on them. This rule led to much counterfeiting of cards and other inconveniences, which are removed by the order just issued.

For Sickness Get the Best.

Physicians of the principal cities prescribe Old Choice Wines from Speer's N. J. vineyards. The rich Port, the Claret, Burgundy and Unfermented are unexcelled by any in the world for entertainments, family use and invalids.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Biliousness, Indigestion, Headache. Easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Conditions So Similar.

"Does that moon remind you of anything?" he asked, his mind reverting to their courtship days.

"Yes," she answered.

"What?" he asked.

"You," she said; "on club nights."

He looked again. Yes, the moon was in that condition.—Chicago Post.

Negative Virtue's Poor Reward.

"Why, papa," she argued, "you know Arbuthnot never drinks, chews, smokes, gambles or swears."

"Yes, I know," the rugged unromantic old man answered, "but I don't want a chap for a son-in-law who merely doesn't do things."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Charge.

Blobbs—I hear you lost your suit. Was the judge's charge unfavorable?

Slobbs—Oh, I'm not kicking about that. What makes me sore is my lawyer's charge.—Philadelphia Record.

Wrinkles come, the face fades, but the soul speaks just as eloquently from the eye where hope has conquered care.—Schoolmaster.

The business man who clutters up his brain with some other fellow's "success maxims" is pretty certain to score a quick failure.—Denver Republican.

Kodol Digests what you Eat

Dyspepsia Cure

People once thought that the only way to cure indigestion was to stop eating. The trouble with such treatment is, that to stop eating is to stop living. KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE has changed the whole method of treating this complaint. It contains all the natural digestive fluids and digests all you eat without aid from the stomach, so you can eat all the good food you want and be cured of your trouble at the same time. "I have been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia for several years and often sat down to eat but had to give it up after eating only two bites. I used two bottles of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and am alright to-day. Can now eat anything I want. W. L. Easton, Audubon, Iowa."

It can't help but do you good

Prepared by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1. bottle contains 2½ times the 50c. size.

When you suffer from biliousness or constipation, use the famous little liver pills known as DeWitt's Little EARLY RISERS. They never gripe.

C. M. PARRISH.

Mothers Always keep it Handy.

"My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spalding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and, now, at the age of seventy-six, eats anything she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy." Dont waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If your stomach is sound, your health will be good, Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digetsingyour food. It is nature's own tonic. C. M. Parrish.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

THE BELLEFONTE "REPUBLICAN" FOR 25 CENTS.

In order to place the REPUBLICAN, during the coming campaign, in as many homes as possible, we have decided to make the following liberal offer, On receipt of 25 cents, we will mail the REPUBLICAN (weekly) to new subscribers, until after the election in November. As the campaign promises to be decidedly exciting and interesting, persons wishing to keep themselves informed on the political situation, should avail themselves of this generous offer. The REPUBLICAN intends taking a leading and decided stand during the campaign, and we promise interesting reading to its subscribers.

—Mr. James Harris is confined to bed with a painful attack of Sciatica.

—Miss Jody Bauer, cashier at Joseph's store, is confined to her home on Bishop street by sickness.

—During the month of August no Sunday evening services will be held at St. John's Reformed church.

—Mr. and Mrs. Gray Hastings, of Beech Creek, are rejoicing over the arrival of a son at their home Thursday, July 24.

—Orie Kline, salesman in the Potter—Hoy Hardware Store, is at home suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism.

—The Misses. Benner entertained a few friends at dinner Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Bennett and Mrs. Tanner, of Pittsburg.

—In another column will be found the advertisement of James Schofield which should be read by every one especially by the farmers.

—Don't forget that August 7th is the date of the Fancy Dress Ball. Let every one—Rich and Poor Young and Old—contribute their mite to the Hospital fund.

—Williard Kline, of East Lamb street, one of the employees at P. B. Crider & Son's planing mill, had the end of one of his fingers cut off while at work Saturday afternoon.

—The Salvation Army held an open air meeting on Tuesday evening at Pleasant Gap, and this evening will hold services in the Evangelical Church at Lemont.

—The Lutheran Sunday School of Bellefonte have decided to hold their annual picnic at Hecla Park on Friday August 8. A good time is guaranteed to all who attend.

—The Sunday School and Congregational picnic of St. John's and Zion Reformed churches will be held at Hecla Park, Friday August 1st. Trains leave Bellefonte on the usual schedule.

—The stork visited the home of F. H. Clemson Tuesday night and left in their care a little baby boy. The stork has been very busy lately around Bellefonte and it seems to be a very welcome visitor.

—A riding party from Bellefonte passed through Philipsburg this week enroute for Winburn. One of the party, Mr. Valentine, of literary fame, is, we hear, writing a novel.—Philipsburg Ledger.

—Gentlemen who wish to appear in Fancy Costume at the Hospital Ball next week can order their costumes through Montgomery & Co., who have illustrated cuts of all kinds which can be hired for a small sum.

—Contractor George A. Bayard, has just completed some necessary repairs to the side walk around the Court House, and the walk through the County Park, which will be a great improvement to the public property.

—The Milesburg Fire Company held a festival and house warming Saturday evening at Milesburg in honor of the opening of their new hose house. There was a large crowd in attendance many being present from here.

—Dr. Kilpatrick of Philadelphia has made arrangements to open dental parlors in our town. He is a young man who comes very highly recommended and is said to be away up in his profession. Further notice will appear in our columns.

—The trustees of the Presbyterian church were entertained Monday night by Mr. James H. Potter at his handsome residence on Linn street. Mr, Potter is a member of that body, and as there was some important business that required attention, he resorted to this means to secure a full attendance—He succeeded.

—We are glad to announce that Frederick Blanchard, Esq., who has been so seriously ill, has recovered sufficiently as to dispense with the services of his nurse, who has been in attendance upon him for the past two weeks. We are impatient for the time to arrive when we may once more greet him upon our streets.

The Musicale Monday Evening.

We would be very glad to give a detailed account of the above entertainment, but have expressed in the blank space our personal knowledge concerning it, though we have been informed that it passed off nicely all who took part acquitting themselves creditably, and was a success in every way. This we are glad to know, because it takes a large amount of time, labor and patience to plan, and carry out the arrangements of such an undertaking.

We ask our readers to pardon us for making a few personal observations, which applies so well in this case.

For the above entertainment the "Daily News" gratuitously (that is for nothing) printed the tickets, the programmes, and inserted several notices in the reading columns of its paper, and urged the patronage of its readers and the public. This was done cheerfully and we would do the same for them tomorrow if requested, but there are amenities which are extended the editorial fraternity in all cases of this character, which in this particular instance were neglected—We mean the complimentary admittance cards. We can hardly make ourselves believe this was intentional, but attribute it rather to oversight or thoughtlessness. It is not that we care for the 25 cents it would have cost us, but simply to remind the people that editors have the same sensibility of feelings as the ordinary mortal, and the same keen appreciation of kindness as anyone else.

The Centre County Fair.

The managers of the Fair Association inform us that the annual Fair will be held September 30th and October 1st, 2nd, and 3rd inclusive. Ever since the flood destroyed so much of their property, they have been at work making repairs. The track is about completed and in better condition than ever. The stalls for horses and cattle are being rapidly rebuilt, and the exhibition building repaired and improved. The gentlemen of the Association deserve credit for their pluck and energy in over-coming their discouragements of the last few months, caused by the flood. Now, let the people show appreciation of their enterprise by encouraging them with their patronage this Fall. This Fair is a good thing for our community, as it brings us into prominence. It is good for our merchants, as they reap the benefit of the vast crowd which it brings to town, and the farmers have an opportunity of exhibiting their choice stock grain and vegetables, and comparing with those who are in the same line, to see whether they are keeping up with the progress of the times.

Let every one unite in making it the greatest Fair and Agricultural Exhibition ever held in Centre County.

Union Temperance Meeting.

Considering the warm evening, the audience at the Union Temperance meeting Sunday night was very fair, quite a large number of men being present. The music was fine, consisting of gospel hymns and a beautiful solo rendered by Miss Ella Twitmire. Rev. Dr. Schmidt presided, and Revs. Perks, Laurie and W. H. Brown occupied seats on the platform. Mrs. Bailey delivered an excellent temperance address, which was listened to with great attention. She is a rapid, fluent speaker, never at a loss for words, confining herself strictly to the subject, and cannot fail to accomplish much good for the cause of temperance. She has traveled and lectured in every State in the Union and her experience in visiting prisons and penitentiaries was given in a very interesting manner.

Mr. Thos A. Shoemaker Entertains.

Thomas A. Shoemaker, Esq., gave an elaborate dinner Sunday, at his beautiful home, in honor of his guest Mr. Edward Harrison, Chief Engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. The following "men of affairs" assembled around the board: Messrs. Ellis L. Orvis, George F. Harris, M. D., C. M. Parrish, John M. Dale, James H. Potter, Harry Keller, George R. Meek, John M. Shugert, J. Harris Hoy, Harry Fenlon, John Blanchard and Henry C. Quigley. It was a most enjoyable affair, and Mr. Harrison appreciated the privilege of meeting so many of our prominent citizens.

The Logan Picnic.

The Logan Fire Laddies held their annual picnic at Hunters Park Wednesday, but the weather was very unpropitious for out door pleasures.

We sympathize with the boys in their disappointment, for they had worked hard to prepare for this outing.

If there is any class of men whom we respect above another, it is the volunteer firemen, for there are more true heroes in their ranks, than can be found any place else. When the alarm of fire is sounded it makes no difference what they are doing, whether it is hot or cold, they make every effort to be on the scene as quickly as possible, and never consider whose property is in danger, it may be friend or foe, rich or poor it is all the same to them, and they vie with each other in deeds of daring to prevent destruction of property or loss of life.

We owe them a debt of gratitude for what they have done in the past, and we are assurred that in the future they will come up to the full measure on any occasion that requires their servicee.

Bellefonte is to be congratulated upon the efficiency of our fire department, and rarely do you find as fine, intelligent, and respectable a body of men enlisted in this work, but then we are ahead in everything.

A Narrow Escape.

John Hoffer Hayes made a narrow escape from a dreadful accident Sunday. The little fellow in attempting to cross the street in front of his fathers residence on Spring street, was run into by a horse and buggy, the horse knocked him down, cutting his head, and one of the wheels passed over his body. He was carried into the house and in the absence of his father who was making a professional visit, Dr. John Sebring was summoned and fixed him up, no bones were broken, but he is badly bruised, and it will be some little time before he will be in as good shape as before the accident.

The Williamsport Hospital a Deserving Institution.

William Garis, who has lately undergone treatment at the Williamsport Hospital which was the means of restoring him to health, speaks very highly of that institution. He says the treatment he received there was of the very best, and the doctors in attendance on the patients are skilled in their profession. This hospital however, needs and is deserving of a larger appropriation from the state as there are several improvements that could be made with advantage.

Almost Bled to Death.

Tuesday afternoon about four o'clock Ellen the little four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McSuley who resides on East Bishop street went into an adjoining lot to gather some daeies when she was so unfortunate as to cut her wrist badly on some broken glass, the flow of blood could not be checked until Dr. R. G. H. Hayes was called who after considerable difficulty stopped the bleeding, but not until the child almost bled to death, we are glad to state that she will recover.

Death of a Child.

Margaret Fortney Hunt, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hunt, of Renovo, died very suddenly Monday morning aged about nine months. The little one is the grand-daughter of Ex-Sheriff Woodring of this city. The many friends in this vicinity will deeply sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Hunt in their sad bereavement.

The remains were brought to Bellefonte Tuesday morning at 9:53. Interment in the Union Cemetery.

The New Pump and Water Wheel.

A representative of the firm who sold the Borough the new water wheel and pump was here last Monday, and by changing the gearing has succeeded in making it go, but at about one-tenth of the rate of speed it should run. We are reliably informed that it is declared a perfect failure, and does not pump half as much water as the one they threw away. We have no suggestions to offer, nor further comment to make. It now rests with the people.

Horse Taken From Stable.

Liveryman George C. Haney, of Mill Hall, writes to George Beezer of this place as follows: "My bay horse, blind in right eye, bobbed tailed, mane clipped, hind feet white, weight about 925 lbs. hitched in top buggy, was taken from my barn July 21st by man crippled in hand and uses crutches and giving name as Frank Blair. Look out for him and let me know if you see or hear anything from him."

Barn Burned by Lightning.

The barn of William Arnold of Clearfield county was struck by lightning on Saturday and destroyed with all this year's crop of wheat and hay. Mr. Arnold and his father were in the barn but escaped uninjured. A mule hitched to a cart was knocked down but with proverbial stubbornness refused to get hurt although the cart and harness were greatly damaged.

—If you are going away from town for a week or longer why not have the DAILY NEWS sent to your address? it only cost 10 cents per week, and you will then know what is going on at home during your absence.

Abe. we congratulate you in the way your sons are turning our, every one of them being good industrious and reliable business men, and you have reason to be proud of them.

Mr. Francis S. Rhoads was a passenger on the 4:44 train Friday afternoon, his destination being Seattle, Washington. In order to see more of the country he will go by the southern route, stopping at New Orleans for several days, and exploring a part of Mexico. When he reaches Seattle, he will engage in the real estate business, having already invested in property at that place. Frank is an up-to-date, progressive business man with good financial backing, but what counts far more than this, is his reputation for honesty and integrity. He comes by these traits honestly, for no son of the late Hon. Daniel Rhoads could be anything else. We wish him every success in his business, and feel assured that prosperity will follow him.

Miss Sarah Bogle of Howard, spent Tuesday with friends in Bellefonte.
